

See Roosevelt Support for Sen. Thomas

Already Has Spoken in Favor of Bulkley And Barkley
GOES TO OKLAHOMA
President Gives Arguments in Favor of New Deal

Aboard President Roosevelt's train enroute to Oklahoma City—(7)—President Roosevelt, anxious to keep his friends in the senate, advanced today toward Oklahoma's political battleground.

The day's engagements took him into the Democratic senatorial primary fight involving Senator Elmer Thomas, Governor E. W. Marland and Representative Gomer Smith. The president was expected to give the edge in his Oklahoma appearances to Thomas, a loyal administration supporter.

During stopping across Ohio and Kentucky yesterday Mr. Roosevelt gave a verbal push to the candidates for renomination of Senators Robert J. Bulkley of Ohio and Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky. The chief executive was especially emphatic about Barkley, the senate majority leader, contending in four talks that present day problems demand the understanding of national minded lawmakers of the Barkley type.

ADmits SLAYING

Oklahoma Schedule
The president's Oklahoma schedule called for platform appearances at McAlester and Shawnee and a big speech tonight at Oklahoma City's state fairgrounds. Speeding across Arkansas, he arranged a platform talk at Booneville.

Thomas, who was elected in the White House secretary as the 10th car presidential special rolled through Tennessee that they would ride the train through part of their state.

Senator Josh Lee and three Oklahoma representatives, Lyle H. Boren, Wilburn Cartwright and Will Rogers also arranged to join the presidential entourage. Governor Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri and Arkansas senators, Hattie W. Carey and John E. Miller were also expected to board the special. Elliott Roosevelt planned to come aboard before his father reached Fort Worth.

The manner in which the president would promote the candidacy of Thomas, remained in doubt up until speaking time.

Frank Fox, Barkley twice praised Bulkley, in Kentucky, he called both Barkley and Governor A. B. Chandler, the candidates for the senatorial nomination, his friends.

The president added he was not interfering "in any shape, manner or form" in the Kentucky primary but he suggested at the same time, that Barkley's shoes in the senate would be hard to fill.

At Covington's Lancia race track Mr. Roosevelt declared that that Governor Chandler would make a good senator from Kentucky—"but I think my good friend the governor would be the first to acknowledge that it would take him many, many years to match the national knowledge, the experience and the acknowledged leadership in the affairs of the nation of Alben Barkley."

Some observers wondered whether the president's words of praise for Chandler would not make it difficult for the governor to press previously made accusations that Barkley was trying to ride back in to office on Mr. Roosevelt's coattails.

New Deal Issues
It became progressively evident during the long first day of the president's transcontinental tour that this is more than a back-patting expedition.

Visiting politicians and members of the president's party expressed the opinion it might be more noteworthy for providing arguments to the campaigning friends of Mr. Roosevelt than for mentioning some of their names.

Although they have come to expect in every Roosevelt speech some references to phases of his program, the nature of the talks in Ohio and Kentucky today indicated this series of speeches would, before it ended, cover most of the controversial phases.

Refugees Sure Of Havens in 3 Countries

Mexico, Dominican Republic and Peru Make Offers

OTHERS WON'T ACT
Peru Makes Exception Of Intellectuals in Program

Evian-les-Bains, France — (7) — Three Latin American nations offered today to open their doors to German and Austrian refugees after the Evian conference they could not permit mass immigration.

Mexico pledged "asylum to foreigners who are afraid for their lives" and promised opportunities for them to work.

The Dominican Republic promptly followed suit as did Peru, the latter making an exception, however, of refugee intellectuals.

Virgilio Trujillo Molina, Dominican delegate, announced both agricultural and professional men would be accepted. He said large areas suitable for farming were available and the West Indian Republic would provide seed and technical advice.

Garcia Calderon, Peruvian delegate, said Peru would welcome farmers and all agricultural workers to the "place strict restriction on lawyers, doctors and other professional emigrants."

Moderate, selected immigration would be helpful to Peru, he said, but the nation would not compromise its national stability.

Mexican Program
The Mexican delegate, Primo Villa Michel, told the conference "our collaboration will make it possible to carry out the migration of refugees from Germany and Austria in an orderly manner at a rate appropriate to each country's requirements and possibilities."

Jesus Maria Yopez, delegate from Colombia, told the conference Colombia must limit immigration to agricultural workers. He said his country could not encourage migration of intellectual workers and traders, who make up the mass of refugees.

Argentina and Brazil previously had made similar discouraging statements.

The Chilean delegate, Garcia Oldini, announced that his country would be unable to increase its immigration quotas for either industrial or agricultural workers pending completion of technical studies already ordered.

He said any eventual immigration would have to be "in a measure which would not risk compromising the situations to which our national workers have a right."

Irish Guards Are Sent to Jerusalem To End Disorders

Two Christians and Moslem Arab Slain in Arab Village

Jerusalem — (7) — Famed Irish guards, who provide some of the sentries for King George VI's London palace, tramped into apprehensive Jerusalem today to help thousands of other soldiers and police quell bloody Arab-Jewish violence.

The slaying of two Christians and one Moslem in an Arab village in the holy Nazareth district brought the number of deaths in three days of racial killings to 61. At least 150 were wounded, Arab strikes spread through the Holy Land.

Most Arab shops in Jerusalem remained closed. Few persons dared venture into streets of the city tense with fear.

Greenville Youth Drowns in River

Clarence Butt, Cow Tester, Swimming Victim Near Shawano

Clarence Butt, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Butt, Greenville, drowned about 9 o'clock last night in the Wolf river near the new Wisconsin Power and Light company dam, four miles north of Shawano.

Butt, a tester for the Wisconsin Cattle Testing association, had been testing stock on the Albert Kohn farm, near the river, and planned to stay overnight. With two farm boys, Robert Kohn and Edwin Jackson, he went into the river. Butt could not swim, and was wading in four feet of water when, the boys said, he disappeared. The body was recovered two hours later.

The youth completed a short course at the University of Wisconsin this spring. He was born in Dale and lived for the last eight years at Greenville.

Besides the parents, survivors are a brother, Lyle, Greenville, and a sister, Miss Ruby Butt, Greenville.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 Monday afternoon at the home and 7 o'clock at the Immanuel Lutheran church, Greenville, with the Rev. Leonard Kasper in charge. Burial will be in Union cemetery, Medina.

Italy Ready to Fight Bolshevism, Duce Says

Rome — (7) — Premier Benito Mussolini today announced Italy's readiness to combat bolshevism "on a European, on a world-wide scale" if such a combat should be necessary "to decide the fate of the continent."

Il duce's defiant statement was made in a preface he wrote to a volume of fascist grain council's acts covering decisions of the last three years.

Mussolini wrote that the acts were being published "while victory is within the grasp of (Spanish) insurgent generalissimo, Franco's armies notwithstanding, French-Russian aid."

Paraguay and Bolivia Approve Preliminary Accord Marking End Of Dispute Over Chaco District

Buenos Aires — (7) — Foreign Ministers of Paraguay and Bolivia adopted and sealed with a kiss today a preliminary accord to end the century-old territorial fight over the almost worthless Gran Chaco border area.

The agreement must now be submitted to the two governments for final approval, whereafter mediators of six countries, who have tried since 1925 to keep Bolivia and Paraguay from warring again over the "green hell," hope a final treaty can be signed in five or six days.

The accord is to determine the Bolivia-Paraguay boundary through arbitration by presidents of six American countries or their representatives.

Princess Baba and Husband May Set Up Kingdom on Island

San Francisco — (7) — If the deal goes through for the pretty Princess Baba of Sarawak and her English wrestler husband, they said here today, there'll be a "Babaland" in the Dutch East Indies where "every man would be a rajah."

The princess, by marriage Mrs. Bob Gogoroy, said she and her musician husband were negotiating for purchase of an island in the Indies group for their future domain.

She mentioned $30,000 as a suggested price and said: "We're going to have a democracy, but with a court and things. Maybe an aristocratic democracy. I think a country without lots of uniforms and braids is no fun."

Bacon Sentenced To State Prison For Embezzlement

Investor Must Serve From 3 to 21 Years at Waupun

M. M. Bacon, 39, private investment counselor who yesterday pleaded guilty to 19 counts charging embezzlement of about $50,000, this morning was given a gross sentence of from 3 to 21 years in the state penitentiary at Waupun by Acting Municipal Judge Fred V. Heinemann.

The defendant was sentenced to serve from 1 to 5 years on each of four counts, which charged embezzlement of amounts under $1,000, and to 1 to 7 years on each of 15 counts, which charged embezzlement of amounts over $1,000. The sentences are to run concurrently with the exception of three 1 to 7 year terms which are to run consecutively, making the gross sentence 3 to 21 years. Bacon will be eligible for parole after he serves three years.

He was taken to the county jail, and Sheriff John Lappen said the investor probably would be taken to Waupun this afternoon to start serving the sentence.

The counts on which Bacon was given the consecutive sentences were embezzling $3,830.82 from Mrs. Turn to page 4 col. 6

Loyalists Launch Series of Attacks On Fascist Forces

Hendaye, France, at the Spanish Frontier — (7) — Spanish government militiamen halted a two-day retreat on the eastern front today and launched a series of counter-attacks against positions the insurgents had conquered, including the fortified town of Nules, 23 miles north of Valencia.

Although forced out of Nules yesterday by General Miguel Aranda's Galician troops, the militiamen said they had recaptured Hill 221 dominating the cross-country road from Nules to Moncofar, five miles to the southeast near the coast.

Nules, once a prosperous health resort, was abandoned by government forces after three days of hard fighting at Villavieja, two miles to the west.

An insurgent flank attack cut around the government defenses to the southwest where a drive south from Burriana made the government positions untenable.

Two Life-Termers in Escape From Prison

Rockwood, Mich. — (7) — Two life-term convicts escaped from prison in a state-owned automobile today after threatening a trusty with death.

The fugitives are Richard Champlain, 40, and Earl Glenn Saunders, 38.

James Walsh, the trusty, told state police that the pair, assigned to prison hospital duty, told him they were detailed to give medical attention to a prisoner being held at Flat Rock, Mich., and that he drove them through the prison gate. Outside, he said, they held a razor against his neck until they forced him from the car near Flat Rock and continued their flight toward Ohio.

Champlain was sentenced for first degree murder from Saginaw in 1921; Saunders on the same charge from Detroit in 1928.

Iowa Governor In New Effort To End Strike

Kraschel Invokes Arbitration in Maytag Labor Controversy

AGREEMENT IS AIM
Executive Hopes Both Sides Will Accept Findings of Board

Newton, Iowa — (7) — Robert Kirkwood, secretary of the Maytag CIO union was arrested by Sheriff Earl Shields today on a charge of criminal syndicalism.

Kirkwood was the sixth union man to be arrested in connection with labor disturbances at the Maytag plant, closed two months ago when CIO workers walked out in protest against a 10 per cent wage cut.

Newton, Iowa — (7) — Skeleton forces of pickets stood guard at the Maytag Washington Machine company plant entrances here today, as Governor Nelson G. Kraschel pushed "one final attempt" to arbitrate the two-month-old labor controversy between the CIO union and company officials.

In invoking arbitration as provided by Iowa law, the governor said in Des Moines he realized the findings of the arbitration board would not be binding upon either side, but added:

"I hope both sides will accept the findings of the board. At least, I will have the satisfaction of knowing that every legal means to settle the dispute peaceably will be exhausted."

State Agents Frank Moorhead and Charles Grogan today continued service of Kraschel's notices for attempt to arbitrate the labor dispute brought on May 9 when the 1,400 factory workers walked out in protest against a 10 per cent wage cut.

Governor's Plan
The governor's arbitration plan calls for the union and company each to submit a panel of five names to him. From each panel he is to select one. If either side fails he would name that arbitrator. The first two arbitrators selected will attempt to name a third but, failing, the governor also would name him.

The governor said the board should "complete its work within a week."

Edward Ford, company attorney, said "we do not know what our position will be until we are advised of the exact questions which are proposed to be arbitrated under the governor's plan."

While the CIO repeatedly has asked that the 10 per cent wage cut be submitted to arbitration, the company has insisted it would not be bound by arbitration.

County Attorney Luther M. Carr said he was afraid the governor's step would only postpone for "a week or 10 days" the industrial strife in Newton.

Green Bay Boys Find $155 in Gold Coins

Green Bay — (7) — Playing in a hole dug in their back yard for a garage door, Lawrence and Lloyd Dasher, 9 and 14, sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Dasher, found $155 in gold coins late Friday afternoon—seven double eagles, a $10 and a $5.

Apparently they had been buried in a baking powder can or similar container which had disintegrated. Dates on the coins ranged from 1877 to 1891.

Lawrence found three of the coins first. Lloyd asked his mother, "Can we find any more, can we have a key?"

The boys' father, employed at the North Western roundhouse, has owned the home for 14 years, but the abstract shows many changes prior to that time, he said.

State Democratic Leaders Ask Party To Shun Coalition

Eighth District Group Wants Dilweg Attorney General

2 IN CONGRESS RACE
Unmuth Named to Committee at Fond du Lac Conclave

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD
Fond du Lac — The Eighth district Democratic caucus today endorsed Laverne Dilweg, Green Bay attorney and former Packer ace, for the party's nomination for attorney general in the September primaries.

The district convention of the party will be held in Manitowish instead of Marinette at a date to be set later. Burt Everson, Green Bay, district chairman, announced this morning.

The caucus named A. G. Murphy of Kewaunee, Thomas Dwyer of Green Bay and Martin Umuth of Appleton to serve on the state convention committees resolutions, permanent organization and credentials, respectively.

The caucus, numbering about one hundred and fifty delegates, was the largest outside of Milwaukee county held here today.

Eighth district Democrats will be offered at least two choices for congressman in the September party primaries. It appeared today, as booms were developing for two widely known district politicians at the convention of the Democratic party of the state here.

The two certain candidates — some delegates hazarded guesses that there may be another appearing soon — are John E. Cashman of Denmark, Kewaunee county, and Joseph Konop, also of Kewaunee county.

Cashman is a veteran state senator from the First congressional district, and this week crossed a political Rubicon with an announcement that he has formally adopted the Democratic party and deserted the Progressives after a lifetime career in the political movement led by the LaFollette family.

Dinneen Fails to Escape Charges

Judge Dismisses Writ of Habeas Corpus at Madison

Madison — (7) — Circuit Judge A. C. Hoppmann dismissed today the writ of habeas corpus on which William M. Dinneen, former secretary of the state public service commission, had sought to escape trial on charges of fraud while he was on the commission.

The decision, unless overruled on appeal, will require Dinneen to face trial in circuit court on charges he turned over confidential commission information to B. E. Buckman and Company, the now bankrupt Madison investment firm.

Dinneen had been bound over for trial by Superior Judge Roy H. Proctor, but no trial date had been set, when his attorney, Ray T. McCann, Milwaukee, obtained the writ.

McCann contended that even if it were proved that Dinneen conveyed information to the Buckman company this was not a criminal offense.

Judge Hoppmann, however, upheld the claims of William H. Spohn, special state counsel, that several sections of the statutes could be cited in prosecuting Dinneen. He pointed out that the commission had the duty of investigating complaints and regulating sales of securities, and added:

"The petitioner Dinneen, stood as a sentinel at the head of an army of clerks to see to it that all the complaints were filed and came to the attention of the commissioners in order that the proper investigations might make the proper investigations as the statutes required them to do."

Burglar's Get $60 From 5 Appleton Business Places

Police Investigating Latest Outbreak of Series Last Night

Police today were investigating a series of burglaries, believed to be the work of youthful amateurs, the latest outbreak being reported last night. Service stations, taverns and stores are the favorites of the burglars.

Five places were reported entered of last night and cash amounting to about $60 taken.

The Schiedermayer Hardware store, 623 W. College avenue, was burglarized of $13.60 and a box of cartridges. Entrance was gained through a basement window, police said.

Breaking a glass and then opening a door from the inside, the burglars netted $15 in cash at the Marx grocery and service station, 124 W. Wisconsin avenue.

Only $1 in pennies was taken in cash at the Schmidt Super Service station, 202 W. Wisconsin avenue, but keys from cars on the station parking lot also were taken.

Egert's Bar, 733 W. College avenue, was ransacked and about $3 in cash taken from the till and cigarette machine was jimmied open. The sum may be larger after a complete check of the loss is made.

The fifth place entered last night was the Maritime tavern, 336 W. Wisconsin avenue, and $21 in cash was taken.

A machine taken from the municipal clubhouse last week has been recovered by police.

Methods used by the burglars in entering and ransacking buildings led police to believe that the burglaries have been committed by youths.

Kansas City Firm Loses Struggle to Put Ban on Pickets

Kansas City — (7) — Mrs. Nell Donnelly Reed, a pioneer woman industrialist, today faced a threat of the International Ladies Garment Workers' union to use its "full force" to organize her women's wear plant after losing an important court battle against picketing.

Federal Judge John C. Cole late yesterday dismissed a temporary injunction restraining the international union from picketing the $1,600,000 Donnelly Garment company. He granted the union the right to attempt to organize the employees. He also dissolved the company's bill of complaint against the union, ruling the federal court had no jurisdiction in the dispute under the Norris-LaGuardia act.

President David Dubinsky of the I.L.G.W.U. announced in New York he would "proceed with full force in organizing" Donnelly workers.

Death of Woman 'Closed'

Case, Police Chief Says

Centuria, Ill. — (7) — Chief of Police William Kaehn said today he was "satisfied" with a coroner's jury verdict in the death of 29-year-old Mary Britton and the case was "closed, unless other evidence develops."

The jurors decided a self-inflicted bullet wound caused the death of the beauty school student whose partly-clad body was found in the home of Elvin Satterlee, Centuria, automobile dealer, Thursday night.

Satterlee was one of three witnesses who testified that "jealousy" was a possible motive. Chief of Police Kaehn said Satterlee had admitted living with Miss Britton for some time.

Duffy Predicts Defeat of G. O. P. and Progressives

NEW DEAL LAUDED
Tells Members They Are Representatives of Roosevelt

Fond du Lac — (7) — Senator F. Ryan Duffy told the state convention of Democrats today they are now the sole representatives of President Roosevelt in Wisconsin and predicted they would defeat both Republicans and National Progressives in the 1938 general election.

Duffy joined with Keynote Jerome Fox of Chilton, National Committeeman Charles E. Droughton of Sheboygan, and State Chairman James Corcoran of Webster, in advising the convention against any coalition with non-Democrats to defeat Governor LaFollette this fall.

Duffy, whose endorsement for reelection has been given the tacit approval of the convention, declared: "It will be shown in the fall that the Democratic party in Wisconsin is President Roosevelt's party and that President Roosevelt will support the Democratic party."

Repudiates LaFollette
The senator repudiated Governor LaFollette and the National Progressives by stating that Wisconsin should cooperate 100 per cent with the national administration, from which he inferred the LaFollette party has received many favors.

Duffy has remained silent officially about reports that Democrats would ask the president to replace Philip Flanner of Madison, Progressive administrator of the WPA, but his reference to state cooperation with the president, observers said, related to all influence of LaFollette over state government affairs.

Fox, who was selected to be temporary chairman of the convention said that coalition is not feasible and Droughton flatly declared that coalitionists are enemies of the national administration.

Nether entered into a discussion of who is going to run on the Democratic primary ticket but the convention was prepared to endorse Senator F. Ryan Duffy of Fond du Lac for reelection.

Lauded By Farley
Duffy was given a boost yesterday by Postmaster General James A. Farley who spoke to the party's delegates here and to Wisconsin postmasters in convention at Sheboygan. The postmaster general later left for Chicago and today started on a trip which will take him to Alaska.

Despite demands of delegations from Milwaukee and other counties that coalition-minded delegates be denied seats in the convention, Keynote Fox asked that the conference make no issue of this question.

Fox said he had been told the coalitionists will carry their attack upon Governor Philip LaFollette and refrain from a discussion of national issues, but that even so he regarded their plan as "untimely and destined to failure."

Predicting party success in the November election, Fox maintained it would be "trivial" and "undemocratic" for the convention to attempt to read coalitionists out of the party.

Broughton's Statement
Broughton declared, however, that any effort of parties to the two old parties comes from those who are dissatisfied and who are "afraid to meet the test in the Democratic party."

"They would have you believe that coalition is a state issue, that the coalitionists are not enemies of the national administration," the national committeeman said. "Yet they are joining forces with those

Can't Decide Which Of Two Widows He'll Wed as Result of Ad

Natawan, N. J. — Judson Van Arsdale, 59, a widower, would like to marry either of two widows. Both of the widows would like to marry Jud.

It can't be done, so the widows, working as housekeepers, are living at Jud's Jackson street home, pending an inspiration.

Jud, who started it all with a matrimonial ad, scratched his head today and allowed as how the whole thing ought to straighten itself out in a "day or two." But he didn't say how.

He did say, however, that he felt lonely, wanted a wife, and inserted the ad. Of 80 swift replies he narrowed the field down to one, a 57-year-old brunette from Washington, D. C.

He sent her rail fare and she arrived but left suddenly one day to attend a sick daughter.

Jud said he wasn't sure she'd return so he sent rail fare to another of the original 80—a Paris, Ill., blonde of some 40-odd years. She came, saw, and conquered Jud's heart.

Wedding bells were in the very near offing when prospect number one returned.

ADVISES GRADS

"Do it the hard way," was the advice offered the graduating class of Olivet College by Harlow H. Currier, president of the Buick Motor Division of General Motors. Speaking at the 79th commencement exercises, during which he received the honorary degree of doctor of laws, the noted industrialist informed the graduates that he had in patience with those who voice a dolous sympathy for youth as represented in the class, because they were setting foot in an economic world that has gone askew. "I envy you deeply and sincerely as anyone must who even dimly sees how great and impleachable are the needs of the world," he said.

This summary of the Buick president's advice, together with the above photograph, was sent to the O. R. Kloeck Co., 213 E. Washington street, Buick representative in Appleton.

Summer Is Ideal Time to Consult Nehls Decorators

Reliable Firm Has Complete Line of Fine Paints, And Wallpapers

Wallpaper and paints are a year-around business with the William Nehls company, 226 W. Washington street, but admittedly the warm summer months are the easiest ones for the home-owner and business man to carry out decorating plans.

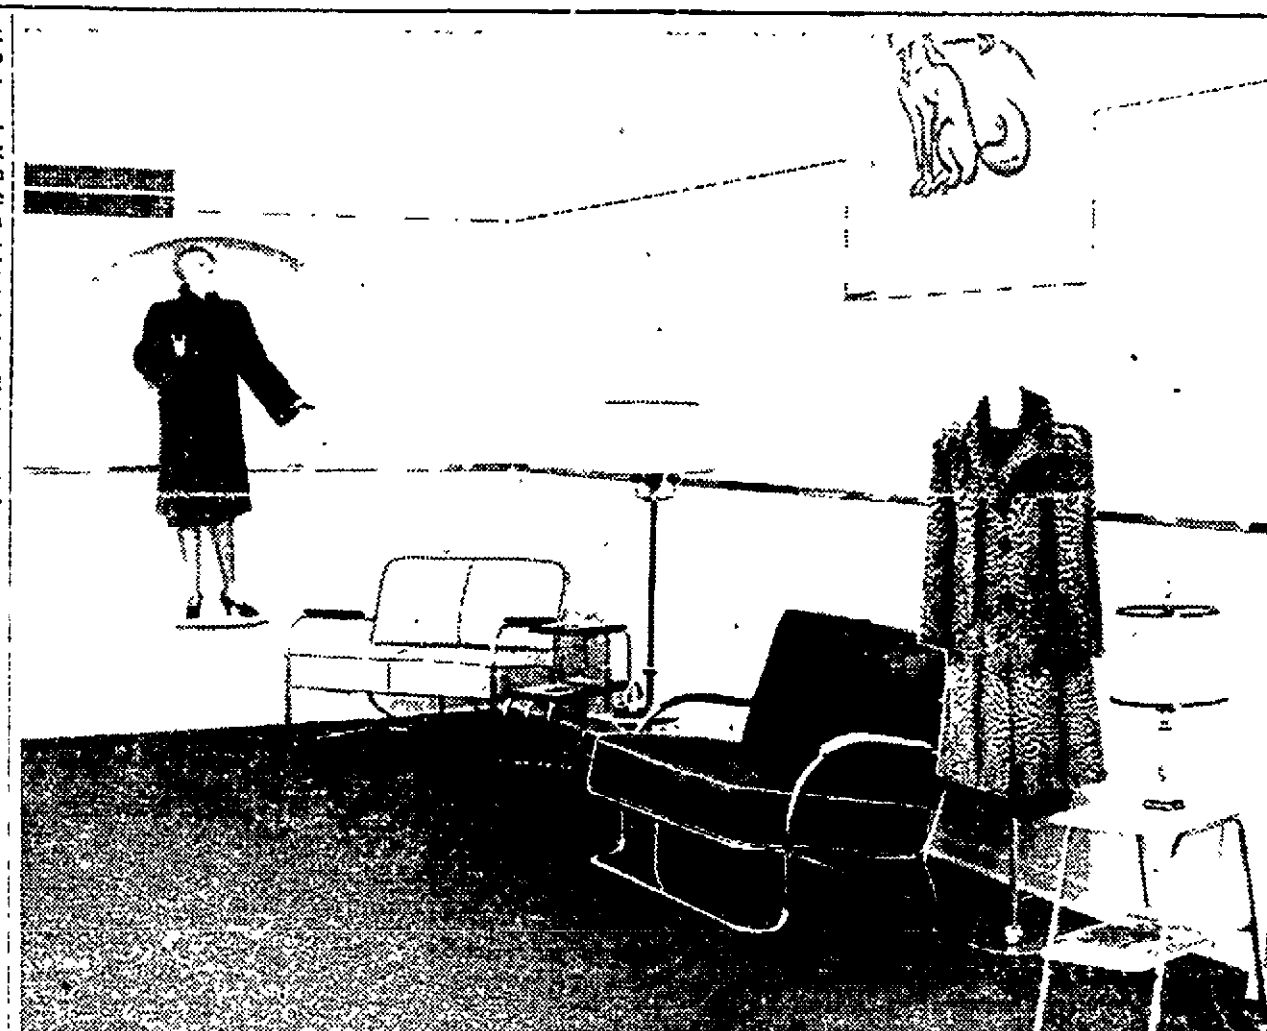

That's why a consultation with the Nehls firm soon is the logical move for anyone who has considered decorating home, office or store this summer. An estimate by Nehls involves no cost or obligation, and the wealth of experience (more than 30 years) behind this company plus a quality stock will usually bring forth ideas that had not previously been considered.

A feature of Nehls' products is the Moore line of paints and varnishes. To risk a pun, when you use "Moore" paint, you use less paint. This is because of the superior quality of Moore products which makes them go farther and last longer, hence bringing down their already moderate cost to a truly economical level.

Nehls' wallpapers are produced by the nation's outstanding manufacturers and are obtainable in a wide range of prices starting at five cents for a single roll. Included are the famous Imperial washable wall-papers and the noted Birge line.

Yes indeed, right now—with summer weather here and the family gone much of the time—is the logical moment to see Nehls.

Sydney, Australia.—An electrical storm gave an electrician here such a shock that hair literally grew on his head after touching a live wire a bald patch started to fill out.

KRIEK'S SMART SHOWROOM IS AIR-COOLED

Pictured above is a partial view of the outstanding, modernistic fur showroom at Kriek Furs, 220 E. College avenue. Strange as it may seem, hot summer weather is fur coat weather at Kriek's. The deep spaciousness of this air-cooled showroom with its three large triple mirrors, allows patrons to try on furs leisurely in comfortable and beautiful surroundings.

With August but a few short weeks away, Kriek's are presenting glamorous new fur fashions for the smart woman who recognizes beautiful, custom-made creations and wears them with distinction.

Kriek's feature a complete collection of styles in furs that will be shown this fall in smart fur salons all over the country. Quality of skins, style prestige and flawless workmanship are of paramount importance in this collection.

Stop in and see these exciting new styles in furs. Kriek urges. Fashioned with a lavish hand, Kriek furs nevertheless offer a practical sense of balance in their moderate cost. Fur shoppers will do well to inquire about Kriek's convenient budget plan.

Builders and Remodelers Will do Well to Consult Robert Schultz

With the expected building boom beginning to show signs of coming to life and the steady run of home and other building improvements continuing through the summer months, considerable attention is being given to Robert Schultz, masonry contractor, 1223 W. Lawrence street.

Mr. Schultz, with more than 31 years experience in the masonry and concrete field, is always ready to give competent advice on all such problems without the slightest hesitation on the part of the customer. His prices are exceedingly moderate, despite the fact that some of the best work to be found in Appleton is credited to him.

On some decent clothes before the reporters take pictures of you?"

"White flannels, an' a blue coat," Ascy promised, "an' my best yachtin' cap. Now, get 'em. Don't ask questions now, Hanson. Wait'll we see if this turns out—you see, he didn't know about the ambergis, at first. That is, he didn't know the value."

"Roddy," Ascy said, "Then, after his plane crash, an' before he began thuglin' money to Nettie, an' 'ferm' rewards, an' bein' so lavish—sure, he'd bind it in gold! Why not? He remembered his granddaddy's book, see? About whalin' an' ambergis. Looked up ambergis in encyclopedia, too—man! don't you see? It was Roddy who moved that ambergis out of the barn. Roddy Strutt! Roddy found out by then how much the ambergis was worth! An' Roddy has his savin' streak, an' the family yen to get money—Roddy moved it! I knew there had to be another person, an' some reason for him bein' killed! Got someone, Jennie?"

"Well, if it don't beat all," Jennie said, "The line was busy—I thought it'd be, it most always is. But Emma, she had to go to the office—she hadn't gone home yet, she phoned her great-aunt for me—"

"Who built Octagon House?" "Earl Jennings' father, he built it. But I'm sure I don't know—"

"Hanson," Ascy said happily, "here's where we start in our plan."

Fine Service at No Extra Cost Is Belling Feature

Prescription Experts Ready to Aid at Any Hour Of Night or Day

A frantic phone call, the voice of a mother saying, "Hurry, please." Sometimes the word "speed" means the same as "life" because very often delivery of a prescription is a matter of life or death. No wonder Belling's Drug Store, 204 E. College avenue, the "prescription drug store," takes special pride in its prompt delivery service which is available anytime of the day or night.

This prompt delivery feature in addition to its strict, reliable, prescription department, are reasons why innumerable families find it the safe, sane, economical practice to take all prescriptions upon all occasions whether speed of delivery is an element or not to Belling's for their expert attention and to depend upon the Belling line of standard remedies exclusively.

Good advice costs nothing at Belling's, a feature which has made many friends for this store, but the outstanding characteristic has been Belling's understanding of the doctors' requirements and its familiarity with what leading physicians prescribe.

The result is complete satisfaction everytime and a complete escape from the danger of improperly filled prescriptions or prescriptions compounded with sub-standard ingredients. Expert, registered pharmacists employed here are known for their accuracy. Only fresh, efficient, and highest quality drug compounds are used with careful handling and storing of drugs.

Chicago —(T)— Chicago public school authorities have decided to include dancing in the high school curriculum as a means of making the boys and girls more sociable.

Superintendent William J. Johnson issued a bulletin saying the instruction should develop the social graces and destroy self-consciousness.

The lessons start with pupils paired into couples marching to music. Next come the simple dance steps and instruction in etiquette.

Japanese Urge Evacuation of Threatened Zone

Want Foreign Vessels and Citizens to Leave War Area

Shanghai — (U) — The Japanese, rushing 20,000 fresh troops up the Yangtze river for an intensified drive on Hankow, sent a new note to the United States and other foreign powers today urging removal of all foreign vessels and citizens from the danger zone.

The note stressed the "desirability of voluntary evacuation" along the river between Hankow and Wanchikong, halfway to Hankow, and cautioned particularly against remaining in the 80-mile stretch above Kukiang, 133 miles downstream from the provisional capital.

A similar note to the foreign powers on June 11 was rejected. Foreign authorities had not yet had time to answer the new communication, but in view of their past stand it was considered likely it also would be rejected, with American and British gunboats at Kukiang remaining there.

Kukiang, next major objective in the drive, and Kuling, a hitherto untouched mountain resort where a number of Americans and other foreigners have sought safety, were mentioned in the memorandum as danger spots.

Channel Through Boom
Questioned as to how foreign vessels could evacuate Kukiang with a boom blocking the river 30 miles above the city, a Japanese spokesman said he understood there was a channel through the boom and mine fields.

Asked why Kuling was included, since it was 13 miles up in the mountains and of no military importance, he said he had information that Chinese troops were there, which made it a military objective.

The memorandum declared the Japanese "regretted" the foreign powers had rejected the previous suggestion. It said there was an element of danger for neutral vessels in the river despite the fact that they had their flags painted on awnings and urged that they use other distinguishing devices, such as painting the vessels in special colors and flying streamers.

The Chinese have laid hundreds of mines in the Yangtze, the memorandum said, and many still drifting are a source of danger.

The Chinese announced, meanwhile, they had made several successful counter-attacks against Japanese advance units along the Yangtze, including a victory at Huanmutang where the Japanese said to have lost several hundred men and ten armed launches.

The Chinese also reported they were counter-attacking at Matowchen, Pengtshen and Sianchow, causing heavy Japanese losses.

Publish Roosevelt Letter Criticizing Chandler's Ambition to Enter Senate

Washington — (U) — President Roosevelt has accused Governor A. B. Chandler of Kentucky of placing him in a "disagreeable situation" by proposing that a way be cleared for Chandler to run for the senate.

The governor, Mr. Roosevelt said in a letter to Senator Logan (D-Ky.), wanted him "to traffic in judicial appointments," a proposal which he said put him, Logan and Senate Majority Leader Barkley in Kentucky "into a most disagreeable situation and wholly without any cause therefor."

The letter, given out by Logan's associates here today, was dated Feb. 1. It was written shortly after Logan had announced he would not resign from the senate to accept a judicial appointment.

His resignation would have opened the way for Governor Chandler to run for his senate seat. When Logan did not step out, Chandler announced in opposition to Barkley. Yesterday President Roosevelt, in a speech at Covington, Ky., endorsed Barkley's candidacy by citing his record in congress in a lengthy and laudatory manner.

Praises Logan
Last night at Bowling Green — Logan's home town — the president said Logan had "stood firm against dragging the judiciary into a political campaign."

Just before the president's letter to Logan was given out today new charges of political activity by the WPA in Kentucky in behalf of Barkley brought a complete denial from Harry Hopkins, administrator of the works agency.

(R-Mich.) wrote Hopkins inquiring about the distribution in London, Ky., of large paper bags bearing the name of Senator Barkley. Hopkins replied that they were distributed not by the WPA but by a general store to whom they had been donated by an "unnamed friend" of Barkley.

He added that "loose and unfounded charges" were being "trumped up by persons anxious to find political activities in any and every act of this administration."

FARLEY COMES TO WISCONSIN

Fox Invites Progressives And Liberal Republicans To Back New Deal Regime

Fond du Lac — (U) — Keynoting the state Democratic convention, Jerome Fox of Chilton, today invited Progressives, liberal Republicans and non-partisans into his party to show President Roosevelt "that his untiring fight to provide democratic opportunity, work and a livelihood for millions of people is appreciated."

"We owe it to ourselves to make certain that the president is not repudiated, by electing to office the candidate whose loyalty has been unflinching; who has not sidestepped or backtracked; and he can only be our Democratic candidate," Fox declared.

Fox praised the national administration and asserted Mr. Roosevelt "has been the only president who has ever applied the true Christian principles on a large scale to the relations between man and society."

Discussing the Democrats' rise to power in Wisconsin in 1932, Fox said the Schmedemann administration "worked in close harmony with the president and earned the respect of all political parties."

Raps Present Situation
"What a contrast to the legislature of today, with bitter personal feeling running rampant among its members; with a flimsy disregard of parliamentary rules so that the governor's bidding may be done; with a conduct of its affairs that would bring joy to the heart of any European dictator," he continued.

Fox assailed Governor LaFollette and his newly-launched National Progressive party, saying: "Today Wisconsin presents a crazy-quilt picture in the field of politics. A self-styled Messiah has appeared, a self-appointed Moses now promises to lead the people out of the wilderness. Amidst Hitler-like surroundings and before a banner which in no way resembled the Stars and Stripes, this super-demagogue, Philip F. LaFollette, poured forth a collection of meaningless platitudes interspersed with severe criticism of the president and his attempts to re-discover economic and political liberty."

Coalition 'Unwise'
Fox, discussing the Wisconsin coalition movement, said the idea, "whatever its aims may be, is unwise, untimely and destined to failure. I hope you Democrats will not be lured into the coalition columns as such action will weaken our own ranks."

Fox asserted that with regard to "some threats which have been made relating to trending out of the Democratic party any person identified with coalition, and refusing to seat such an individual as a delegate," it was his belief such action would be "undemocratic, unkind and unnecessary. We are capable enough to travel along under our own power and big enough to overlook these annoyances."

Fox quoted the late President Woodrow Wilson in commenting upon the Republicans—the trouble with the Republican party is that it has not had a new idea for 30 years."

"Those words, while spoken some years ago, ring true today," Fox went on. "There has been a determined effort in Wisconsin by liberal-minded Republicans to gain control of their party but these efforts have been repulsed. Not much hope can be seen in the Republican camp whose battle cry is: 'Hands off big business—It knows best,' and whose attitude is that we can't do anything about anything."

"We Democrats are in an enviable position. We find ourselves there not through chance but because we have followed constantly while Franklin D. Roosevelt led the way. To accuse the Democratic party of Wisconsin of being anything else but liberal would be a base untruth. We intend to follow the leadership of President Roosevelt and not half-heartedly."

Praises Congress
In reviewing accomplishments of the national administration, Fox remarked "congress must rightfully be given its full share of credit; nothing could have been accomplished without close cooperation between the chief executive and members" of the congress.

"In that connection, let me state that Senator F. Ryan Duffy has fought shoulder to shoulder with Franklin D. Roosevelt since the Fond du Lac convention of 1932," he said. "The senator has served his government unwaveringly in the interest of human welfare and his loyalty to his chief has been noteworthy. . . . He is one of three members of the senate to receive the wholehearted endorsement of the president. Surely such approval is the highest kind of tribute to the statesmanship, ability and democracy of our senator. . . ."

Roosevelt Leaves No Doubts About Vigorous Support for Followers

Washington — (U) — President Roosevelt's first addresses on his western tour dispelled for capital politicians any doubts as the vigor of the campaign he intends to wage for a clear-cut political division of "liberals" and "conservatives" as he defines them.

In Ohio and Kentucky, he made sharply clear that he would like to have Senators Bulkley and Barkley returned to congress because of their support of administration measures.

And the lengthy laudation he accorded Barkley showed the extent to which Mr. Roosevelt was willing to stake his personal prestige on the success of candidates high in his favor.

Supports Followers
There seemed no doubt that elsewhere across the country he would put in a word for administration stalwarts up for reelection, and his fighting mood strengthened the probability that he would speak out against some of the senators who have opposed him.

The ultimate success of Mr. Roosevelt's campaign, as he has outlined it so far, would mean a "liberal" label for the Democratic party and a "conservative" one for the Republican party—using the Roosevelt definitions—in 1940.

Already he has encountered his first difficulties—with those whom he would call "conservatives" within his own party. They include senators who have blocked some of his favored measures and some Democratic leaders whose first consideration is party solidarity.

G. O. P. Offers Obstacle
The chief executive thus far has indicated no place for them in his ideal "liberal" party, and from them he may expect opposition to the last.

And another obstacle to such an alignment is being erected by Republican leaders.

Mr. Roosevelt, in his radio address of June 25, described "liberals" as those who "recognize that the new conditions throughout the world call for new remedies." He defined "conservatives" as those who do not "recognize the need for government itself to step in and take action to meet these new problems."

But Republican leaders have shown no inclination to do battle under these definitions. Alf Landon, the 1936 Republican presidential candidate, recently attacked not the broad objectives of the New Deal, for some of which he expressed approval, but the methods by which he said Mr. Roosevelt had sought to achieve them.

President's Tour Becomes Invasion Of States' Rights

More Significant of New Government System Than Court Proposal

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Once upon a time there were several states in a federal union and each of them was supposed to be sovereign, that is each was to send two ambassadors called senators—to represent them in the national government. And the idea was for them to "represent" the people of those states and not somebody else.

Today, all this is changed. No longer are the people of the states of Kentucky or Ohio for instance, trusted to have brains enough to decide who they want to represent them in the national government. The choice is to be made for them under a new theory of government, namely, that the president does the picking and the voters are supposed to ratify his choice.

Maybe Senator Barkley has more experience in Washington than Governor Chandler, but maybe Governor Chandler knows what the people of Kentucky need better than Senator Barkley does.

This was supposed to be a question on which the people of the state of Kentucky were to decide.

President Roosevelt's outspoken advice to the voters of Kentucky that they should nominate Mr. Barkley, when a Democratic nomination is likely to be equivalent to an election, merely means that Mr. Roosevelt, out of gratitude to the senior senator from Kentucky, does what he can to help reelect him.

Mr. Barkley has done whatever the president told him to do. He has been a "rubber stamp" senator and a "rubber stamp" leader. If the president's idea of an obedient senator is carried out, there will be no need for senators at all in Washington. Certainly, the country could save the salaries it pays annually and just let the White House select the "dummy" senators very much as the corporations in the old days used to select "dummy" directors.

Speaks Outright
Mr. Roosevelt is to be commended for his forthrightness. He is not making any secret of his preferences. He is not hiding behind the cloak of ambiguity which for so many weeks obscured his course, especially when he kept insisting that he wasn't participating in the party primaries. Now, ever since his fireside chat, he has agreed to speak out, not in his capacity as president of the United States, but as "head of the Democratic party."

This he believes entitles him to hand-pick the members of the United States senate. In Europe, the idea of a hand-picked legislature has been found necessary by the "head of the state" in order to carry out dictatorial policies. Mr. Roosevelt frankly confesses that he wants senators to vote with him on measures in congress just as he has wanted supreme court judges and members of the quasi-judicial commissions and boards "to go along" with his policies.

Mr. Roosevelt's attempt to reorganize the entire government along personal lines is, of course, the new technique in administration throughout the world. He, to be sure, insists his purposes are benevolent, and that the people are to be benefited, but the American system of government basically depends on a series of checks and balances. The legislative branch was designed to be a check against the executive, while the judicial branch was ordained to be subservient to neither and a check against both.

Acceptable to Executive
Under the Roosevelt conception, legislators must be acceptable to the chief executive. The fathers of the American system of government felt that no one man was indispensable and no one man was infallible, and that it would be better not to concentrate all power, economic and political and social, in the hands of one man. The usual answer made to their inferences today is that the people can undo such a concept of these inferences if they desire and that, when they vote with Mr. Roosevelt, they show they do not want the original American system. What perhaps is more accurate is that the balance of power is held by a minority of voters who receive financial favors from the federal government, and the other groups who are adversely affected insist on splitting their ranks into two parties, irrespective of issues or the comparative qualifications of the candidates. This gives the minority, plus the

County Police Travel 11,294 Miles in Month

Outagamie county highway police traveled 11,294 miles on police duty during June, according to a report of Captain Charles Steidl. The four patrolmen worked a total of 1,111 hours, made 15 arrests, investigated 11 accidents, issued 23 warning cards and conducted 80 driver's tests. During the month 450 cars were checked for defects with 60 per cent rated as good. Forty per cent of the drivers had no driver's licenses.

extended order for the individual squads. Machine gun target designation filled the rest of the training period for the morning.

On kitchen detail Thursday were Privates Mullen and Merkel; sanitary detail, Privates Kuckenbecker and Mattson and the second platoon was on police detail. Sergeant Jim Kerrigan was in charge of quarters. The company won the "best company street" banner Tuesday and has all sail set to win it a lot more times during the encampment.

The "Brothers," a club organized a few years ago by several members of the company, is finding competition in the newly organized "Nelson Club." The new club is made up of Corporal Don Green, and Privates Tracy, Ratzman, Marv Green and Mattson. According to the members, the objective of the group is to "foster good fellowship and the spirit of temperance among its members."

Buell Wakes 'Em
Sergeant Buell is the alarm clock for the sergeant's tent and he says he has plenty of trouble getting the boys out in the morning. He also misses the arguments with Sergeant Rube Schuster, who is not at camp this year. Corporal Guckenberger is doing a good job on letter-writing with the help of the married men in the tent. So far he has written a letter each day of the encampment, missing only the days when he was on the maneuver.

Sergeant Kobal has given up hope of having dry clothes for the rest of the camp. After hanging his clothes out to dry three times and having them rained on each time, he is wearing them wet. Sergeant Dore tells us to send his compliments to all his admirers, and he might add at this time that the mail for the fellows here has been pretty light and all of the folks back home are requested to do a little "pen pushing" for the men at camp. The address here is Company D, 127th Infantry, Camp Douglas, Wisconsin.

Appleton People Would Ban General Use of Fireworks, Survey Indicates

Most Appleton adults questioned by Post-Crescent reporters today favor banning the general sale of fireworks and limiting their use only to groups sponsoring official Fourth of July celebrations.

Although they realize the glamor of the Fourth would be dimmed for children if such a law were passed, the majority of citizens agree that the step should be taken to decrease the annual toll of injuries and burns from fireworks handled by the inexperienced and daring.

Following are comments made today to reporters:
Dr. J. R. MacLaren: "I know that such a move would cut down the number of injuries suffered by people, particularly youngsters, on the Fourth. I saw several cases of rather bad injuries during the Fourth of July just passed, and I did like to see the danger eliminated. I'm an older fellow, because I enjoyed shooting fireworks when I was a kid, but I think they should be prohibited from general use."

Better Disappointed
John Parkinson, insurance man: "Keep the fireworks away from the children, because it's better to have them disappointed than injured. They'll all get used to it after awhile."

Charles Debenack, president of the Appleton Building Trades Council: "I wouldn't favor cutting them altogether, but I do think there should be more restrictions on the actual fireworks. The fireworks that are legal now are still too powerful."

Gust Karras, chef: "Fireworks sponsored by a community or some organization in the community are enough to carry out the spirit of Fourth of July without endangering anyone. Explosives should be kept away from children."

Only Under Supervision
Dan Steinberg, Jr., insurance salesman: "I believe cities should stop the sale of fireworks to anybody and allow them to be used only under expert supervision in a field or on water where the danger of injury is small. Fireworks are a definite menace to children."

Rudolph A. King, printer: "Why take away the fun that comes to kids but once a year. I am opposed to regulations that would end the shooting of fireworks on the Fourth of July. We were all young once, and parents may supervise the shooting of fireworks."

Known as Gerhart, clerk: "Banning of the shooting of fireworks would undoubtedly eliminate a chance to keep themselves in charge of the public purse and the powers of government."

The president's tour is more significant of a change in the American system of government than was his proposal to pack the supreme court of the United States. For that was an attack—temporarily frustrated—on the judicial branch of the government. The new tactics involves an invasion of the rights of the states. Federal coercion and federal intervention in elections by the states of their own representatives in the national congress has never been tried on such a widespread front and with such intensive personal political canvas as is now being attempted by Mr. Roosevelt in his confessedly double role as president of the United States and head of the Democratic party.

Maybe Mr. Roosevelt is a master politician and a boss extraordinary of his party. But it was Abraham Lincoln who said some pertinent things about the inevitable sense of awareness which the American people somehow seem to possess and which makes them able in due time to penetrate for themselves the processes of deception in American politics. Bossism from the White House cannot succeed for any substantial period, any more than bossism in Tammany or anywhere else. The people ultimately repudiate one-man government. (Copyright, 1938)

Aluminum Plant Closed for Week

All Employees of Chilton Concern on Vacations With Pay

Chilton — The plant of the Aluminum Specialty company will be closed all of next week, in order to give a vacation to all of the employees, about sixty-five in number. The vacation will be with pay, for the first time in the history of the local plant.

The heavy rainfalls of this week have retarded haying and other farm work in this section. Cultivation of corn and other crops has been checked by the mud, and heavy stands of grain are badly lodged.

During the electrical storm of Wednesday, the home of Walter Reif was struck by lightning which circled the metal window frames. Little damage was done, outside of a few broken windows.

Harry Hass, who recently purchased the Pat Cole service station on Highway 57 in this city, took possession Saturday morning. Mr. Hass was the former manager of the Chilton Motors.

Twenty-three members of the Future Farmers of America met at the high school Wednesday evening. They decided to hold a picnic at Columbia park on the afternoon of July 14. It also decided to have a booth at the county fair this fall and to take part in the cattle judging to be held in connection with the state Holstein show here Saturday, July 9. A social hour followed the business meeting, and refreshments were served by Roy Elde, teacher of agriculture in the high school.

Leroy Aerts and William Hartman were among the Calumet county boys who left Thursday evening for the CCC camp at Camp Long Lake, Wis. They enlisted for six months.

Applications for the following marriage licenses were made at the office of County Clerk Roland Miller during the last week: Ernst Glassman, Hilbert, and Margaret Meeker, town of Rantoul; Howard Schoehn and Lulu Gerhart, both of Stockbridge; Arthur Bagel, town of Chilton, and Leone Duchow; Chilton; Oscar Lemke and Arlene Habermann, both of the town of Brillion.

Klub Squad Held To Two Singles as Beaver Dam Wins

300 Spectators See Markets Team Score 2 to 1 Victory

Kaukauna — Two hits was the best the Kaukauna Klub softball team could do against the strong Central Markets squad of Beaver Dam last night at the ball park, and the locals dropped their second game this year to the visitors, 2 to 1. Hod Branchford pitched the first three innings for the Klub, and allowed two runs and four hits. Bob Diener took up the mound duties in the fourth and allowed only four scattered safeties in danger. Although the winners only scored twice, Branchford eight of them were left on base in three innings.

Eilers, hurling for Beaver Dam, struck out nine of the Klub batters. Diener fanned four, and Branchford whiffed two. Three hundred spectators were in the stands.

Score in First
- Beaver Dam scored in the first when Fischinski walked, went to second on a wild pitch and scored on Paulick single. In the third Perry singled, went to second on Don Van Able's miscue and came home on Galiminski's double, the only extra base hit of the game.

The Klub scored in the fifth and had the bases clogged when Tatro fled out to end the inning. Peterson singled to right and Branchford followed with a one-baser to left for the only Klub hits. Eiting and Van Able were easy outs, then Niesz and Diener walked. Diener's free trip forcing Peterson over the platter.

Koehne, Kobs and Peterson struck out for the Klub in the first inning, and only 12 men faced Eilers in the first four frames.

Kaukauna Valley Leaguers Prepare For Menasha Game

Winner of Sunday's Tilt at Kaukauna Will be in Line for Title

Kaukauna — An intensive practice session last night and a practice game this afternoon against the Green Bay Reformatory is what Manager Wahy Kilgas hopes will bring his Fox River Valley lads to their peak for tomorrow afternoon's crucial encounter with the Menasha Falcons here. Neither team has dropped a game in the second half of the schedule, and the winner will be favored to win the last half title.

Kaukauna is determined to defeat all the teams in the second half which beat them the first. They have already turned the tables on Appleton and Green Bay and the Falcons are next in line.

The addition of four recruits seems to have turned the Kaws from a first half second division outfit to a pennant contender. The additions are Eddie Schuler, who has yet to lose his first game, Joey Gertz, hitting .350 and playing every ball in third, Junior Martgens behind the plate and Joe Gosens of Kimberly in right field.

This afternoon at the Reformatory Kilgas will give everyone a workout. Kilgas, Les Wercly and Carl Schuler will pitch, Pete Mathis will catch and Pops Kappell, Omaha Gast and Gib Busse will start in the outfield. The regular infield, Diederick on first, Bill Rohan on second, Schuler at short and Gertz at third, will start.

Social Items

Kaukauna — Mrs. Peter Hoolhan entertained at cards at her home yesterday afternoon and evening for the benefit of St. Mary's Altar society. Afternoon prizes in five hundred were won by Mrs. Jacob Jacobs and Mrs. Argo Simon, with Mrs. Lena Macorrie winning a special prize. In the evening, with bridge being played, Miss Cecil Hoolhan was high, and Miss Ann Wolf received a special prize.

The Women's Foreign Missionary society of Brokaw Memorial Methodist Episcopal church held its annual picnic yesterday afternoon at the Bell cottage on Potato Point. Supper was served at 5:30 after an afternoon of social activity.

A meeting of the consistory of Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed church will be held at 7:30 Wednesday evening at the church.

The American Legion Auxiliary will hold its annual picnic at 2:30

Book by Young German Describes Concentration Camp Experiences

By Jean Wiley Thickets

"RUBBER TRUNCHEON" by Wolfgang Langhoff. A few months ago the reading public was fascinated and revolted by "Dry Gullotine," the account of a young Frenchman who had succeeded, after fifteen years of imprisonment for a minor offense, in escaping from the penal colony in French Guiana popularly known as "Devil's Island." His story of the escape of himself and five companions in an open boat, without food, and with very little drinking water, of the agonies they endured while they rowed ceaselessly for several hundred miles under a pitiless tropical sun—could not fail to bring the hardest heart. Their eventual arrival at the British island of Trinidad where they were kindly treated and speeded on their way to the U. S. was the high point of the book.

This record of fiendish abuse endured while prisoners in the penal colony in French Guiana is equalled only by "Rubber Trunccheon," as recounted by Wolfgang Langhoff, a youthful German who was imprisoned for 13 months in a Nazi concentration camp because he had organized and directed workers' concerts, which to the Nazi authorities smacked suspiciously of Communism.

The Spanish Inquisition of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries was perpetrated in the name of religion. The Nazi Inquisition of the twentieth century is equally brutal, and with even less provocation for its aim is to keep one man and one political party in power as long as possible. The author, Herr Langhoff, was the leading actor at the theatre in Dusseldorf, a member of a good, upper-middle class family, a devoted husband and son, and a self-respecting, hard-working citizen of his community. With no warning except a last minute tip from the manager of the theatre in which he was the male lead, young Langhoff was clapped into prison, his home wrecked by revengeful S. S. troopers who pretended to be searching for incriminating documents, his elderly father was beaten, and his young wife forced to flee for her life, without money or even her personal effects.

When you see the NEW Electric REFRIGERATORS, you'll hardly believe your eyes . . .

... and you can pay for it with the money you SAVE!

Electric REFRIGERATORS have been so greatly improved, during the past few years, that electric cold, today, compares with earlier models as modern electric light compares with Edison's original invention. And reduced cost of electric current has gone hand in hand with advances in electric cold.

Remember, when you look at the new electric refrigerators, that you get more for less money, now, than ever before. Furthermore, you can buy on easy terms. And electric rates are so low that your new electric refrigerator will save, in food kept safer, much more than it costs to operate; will save, in a short time, enough to pay for itself.

Knowing these facts, it is obvious that many of the more than 10,000,000 present users of electric cold—those who bought their electric refrigerators some years ago—would enjoy not only even greater comfort and convenience but would actually be money ahead by replacing, now, with a modern model. It is even more obvious, in the light of today's increased efficiency and decreased operating cost, that using any other method of refrigeration in a home that has electric current is like using candles in dark corners instead of simply plugging in another cord and enjoying modern light.

SEE THE NEW Electric REFRIGERATORS TODAY. Their smart designs and bright, enduring finishes will delight your eye. Their roomy, well-lighted interiors, with so many new time-temper-and-trouble saving features, will make the time you spend in your kitchen a joy instead of a job. More than ten million families now enjoy the safe food preservation, faster freezing, economy, convenience and cool, clean comfort that come with electric cold. Do what they have done . . . BUY AN Electric REFRIGERATOR.

An ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR is so safe . . . so swift . . . so simple

Lions Club Plans Day's Program to Precede Pageant

Evening Historical Drama Will Climax Celebration at Erb Park

An all-day program including an exhibit of local historical relics, athletic contests, and rural talent acts will be the building for the Northwest Territory celebration parade Thursday evening, July 21, at Erb park, committee heads from the Appleton Lions club decided at a meeting last night at the Conway hotel.

The arrival of the pageant in the city at about 11 o'clock that morning will signalize the beginning of the celebration which will last during the afternoon and evening at the park. The caravan, which started from Massachusetts last December, will be met at the city limits and escorted through the business section, Lions club officials said today.

A delegation from the club, headed by George Johnson who is general chairman for the celebration, will meet the caravan at the Appleton waterfront Tuesday. It was decided at last night's meeting.

The 36 men in the pageant will pitch camp on the athletic field at Roosevelt field after the caravan reaches the city. They will use showers and other facilities at Roosevelt Junior High school during their day and night here.

Lions officials said today the athletic contests, historical exhibit, and rural talent acts featuring county 4-H members will be held during the afternoon. The pageant, depicting eight episodes leading up to the adoption of the Northwest Ordinance in 1787, will be presented in Erb park at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Twelve Menominee Indians will be at Erb park during the celebration. They will pitch an Indian village there and present tribal dances and ceremonies.

Erik Madison, Lions secretary, pointed out today that the official pageant of the Northwest Territory celebration is not appearing in any other city in the Fox River valley. The only cities nearby sponsoring the pageant are Two Rivers and New London. The pageant will come here from Two Rivers and appear at New London the next evening.

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday with showers Sunday west and north portions; not much change in temperature.

GENERAL WEATHER

The disturbance which was central over Lake Superior yesterday morning has moved eastward and now overlies the lower St. Lawrence valley. This storm has caused showers and thunderstorms during the last 24 hours over the Lake region and Ohio valley. Showers also occurred over the Gulf coast and over the northern Rocky mountains and Canadian Northwest. However, fair weather is general this morning over nearly all sections of the country.

It is now slightly cooler over most of the central states, but temperatures are rising over the plains states.

Partly cloudy and rather warm weather is expected in this section during the next 24 hours, with some probability of showers Sunday afternoon.

Chicago Men Hurt as Auto, Truck Collide

Two persons were injured about 10:30 this morning when an automobile driven by Joseph Kassin, 33, Chicago, and a truck driven by C. W. Schultz, route 1, Hortonville, collided on Highway 45 at Leppia's corners.

Kassin was cut on the knee and the face and Alex Frebus, 31, Chicago, an occupant and owner of the Kassin car, suffered a broken nose and possible fracture of the left leg. He was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital.

Thomas and Edward Dron, Chicago, also riding in the Chicago car were unhurt.

Schultz was going north on Highway 45 and attempted to make a left turn to go west as Kassin was going south on the highway when the crash occurred. The Kassin machine was badly damaged, according to Charles Steidl, captain of the county traffic squad, who investigated.

CLOSE COUNTS IN HORSE SHOE

were coldly received in the party and he was forced to campaign under the Democratic banner.

Cashman's candidacy seemed today to have rallied considerable strength among the district delegates, although Konop's home county delegates were striving to elect one of their own.

Some of Konop's tricker friends pointed out that they feel the district Democratic organization wants "an orthodox Democrat, and not one who has recently changed his colors," meaning, of course, Cashman's long allegiance to the Progressive party.

Konop is a brother of former Congressman Thomas Konop, one of the few Democrats elected in the Eighth congressional district, who held office three decades ago.

A major question mark in the district congressional picture currently, according to some of the shrewder delegates, is the attitude of the Republican organization.

Some county units held out the hope that the Republicans will join forces with the Cashman camp, withholding a candidate of their own. Others, however, professed to have certain information that Joshua L. Johns, a prominent state figure in the time of Fred R. Zimmerman, will be the Republican choice. Johns, it is pointed out, is peculiarly available in the district because of his connections in Appleton, in the southern part of the district, where he once lived, and because he is now a prosperous business man in the northern end of the district.

If the attitude of Outagamie and some of the Brown county delegates is representative of the thought of the rank and file delegates at the convention, this year is putting up a bold front but actually holds out little hope of getting anywhere with its state ticket this fall. The convention, it became plain today, is dominated by the federal New Deal crowd, and will develop into a rally for E. Ryan Duffy's reelection to the United States senate.

Outlines Situation

One very prominent member of the state organization's inner circle, in a confidential mood, put it this way: Democrats in Wisconsin never, during the memory of today's political leaders, have elected a state ticket on a conservative front. The only liberals elected to office on the Democratic ticket in Wisconsin in a conservative election for several decades won with LaFollette Progressive support. The latest example was Albert G. Schmedeman. This year Governor LaFollette will be a candidate in his own party, and the Democrats will have to draw their own campaign wagon.

Duffy's situation is the same part of the year. Duffy was admittedly elected in 1932 by Progressive votes. This year he is making his bid for reelection to New Deal Democrats and the Progressive followers of President Roosevelt. The Progressive candidate this year will be Herman L. Ekern, who will be nominated in the Progressive primary with the full backing of the present LaFollette machine. However, whether by the talent of the Progressive managers, or by the voluntary decisions of the party members, Progressives, at least many of them, will cast the vote for Duffy as a New Deal man in the general election rather than for Ekern who is regarded as a conservative, and somewhat of a stranger, in big circles of the state party.

Van der Woude, of the Shell Union Oil Corp., New York.

Five oil companies and 10 individuals associated with oil firms were subpoenaed earlier this week.

Shun Coalition, Democrats Asked

who have opposed humane legislation at Washington. It is the same old crowd out of office and seeking to get back, and no Jeffersonian Democrat, no loyal supporter of the national administration can afford to play ball with that element.

The blast of the national committee was taken as a direct slap at Robert K. Henry, Jefferson, former Democratic state treasurer, who is the coalition candidate for governor. Henry was not at the convention and was not seeking its endorsement but James J. Kerwin, Milwaukee, state coalition chairman, and his aids were here working in Henry's behalf.

County units caucused today and out of these meetings came word that William B. Rubin, Milwaukee, who has been mentioned as a possible gubernatorial candidate, would be the permanent chairman of the convention. Rubin also is an anti-coalitionist. He was scheduled to address the convention late today.

Agreement Drafted To End Controversy At Co-Op Creamery

Richland Center, Wis.—(P)—A contract agreement which would end a labor dispute at the Richland Center Cooperative Creamery company was being prepared here today by Maurice L. Forer and E. J. Brophy, Milwaukee, representatives of the national labor relations board.

The contract will summarize an agreement worked out at a conference of labor board officials and directors of the cooperative. It will be submitted to the directors and the A. F. of L. teamsters and truckers union which has been attempting for more than four months to organize plant employees.

The dispute began with the dismissal of Guy Johnson and the motion of William Lounsbury, creamery employees. At the conference last night it was agreed that Lounsbury would be reinstated as superintendent of the milk dairy, and that Johnson would not be rehired. Creamery officials said Johnson was discharged because he slept on the job.

Labor board negotiators indicated no action was contemplated against some 500 farmer patrons who recently ousted union workers from the plant. The union employees were rehired when the board stepped in with a threat to prosecute.

Manitowoc—(P)—Three men today declared themselves candidates for state senator from the First district, following announcement by State Senator John E. Cashman, Manitowoc, Progressive veteran, that he would run for congress.

Borchardt, Manitowoc Republican, former business manager of the Wisconsin state fair, and George Koch, town of Franklin (Manitowoc county) Progressive, chairman of the Manitowoc county board.

The district includes Manitowoc, Kewaunee and Door counties.

Phillips Authorizes $100,000 for Scouts

Bartlesville, Okla.—(P)—Frank Phillips, chairman of the Frank Phillips Foundation, Inc., authorized today a gift of $100,000 to boy scouts of Oklahoma and the Texas panhandle.

Phillips, chairman of the board of directors of the Phillips Petroleum company, in a note authorizing the gift, said:

"Emerging from a world-wide depression with the influence of communism, fascism and many other (isms) threatening to undermine our government, and with war clouds hovering over the entire world, we of the present generation will leave to the next generation a heritage of debt, class prejudice, strife and unrest. We pass on to them the responsibility of untangling and solving the knotty problems of society, business and government."

Four of the 36 youths are replacements. They come from 16 colleges over the nation, and earn $1 per day. Those who last out the tour will receive a bonus from the federal government, sponsor of the tour.

George Addes Loses Official Title and Is Ousted From Union

Detroit—(P)—The international executive board of the United Automobile Workers today stripped George Addes of his official title of secretary-treasurer and expelled him from membership in the union.

Addes, one of five international officers suspended last month by Homer Martin, U. A. W. president, walked out of the board meeting at which he was tried yesterday afternoon, after every request made by his attorney, Maurice Sugar, was refused.

Five board members who have been aligned with the "unity" faction, which Addes represents, also left the meeting. Fourteen board members remained, trying the case with Addes absent. Martin announced their decision this morning.

Martin said the board found Addes guilty of mailing letters last June 16 and 23 urging local unions to mail their per capita taxes to Addes, although he then was under suspension, instead of to Delmond Garst, who had been named by Martin as acting treasurer.

A formal resolution by the board said Addes "has persistently, since June 13, jeopardized the organizational activities of the law by trying to paralyze its financial activities."

The formal charges against Addes were preferred by John Schiefelbein, president of Local 283, West Allis, Wis.

Pageant Actors Find Fur Headgear Too Warm

Milwaukee—(P)—The Northwest Territory exposition caravan, which made its bow in Wisconsin at Racine yesterday, appeared in Milwaukee today with several of the characters minus their beards and fur caps because of warm weather.

Slays Stepfather After 'Waiting Fifteen Years'

Dayton, Ohio—(P)—Harold Earl Kuntz, a 30-year-old meat cutter, calmly confessed today to killing his stepfather after "waiting 15 years." Police Captain W. G. Covert said.

The stepfather, George Elmer Smith, 61, WPA worker, was shot three times and killed on the porch of his home late last night.

"I waited 15 years for this," Covert quoted Kuntz. "He murdered my mother and shot out my right eye. I finally got him."

Police records showed that Smith fatally shot his first wife, Mrs. Lily Kuntz Smith, 43, in a quarrel and Kuntz lost an eye and was wounded in the arm. Smith pleaded guilty Jan. 26, 1922, and was pardoned from a life term in 1928.

Bacon Sentenced To State Prison For Embezzlement

John Maher, Chicago, $4,333.39 from John Reeve, Appleton, and $4,308.46 from J. O. Kuhl, Neenah.

Bacon was arraigned on the 19 counts yesterday afternoon and immediately pleaded guilty to each after waiving preliminary examination. Investigation last week by the state banking department disclosed shortages of about $200,000 in excess of those charged in the complaints, but none of the persons involved signed covered statements.

The investigation was made following a complaint to the state banking department and it was found that some of the shortages dated back as far as 1933.

Harry W. Harriman, legal examiner of the securities division of the state banking commission who with J. Deane Gannon, special investigator for the securities division, and Leo J. Sherman, investigator from W. McNeil Kennedy's Chicago regional office representing the securities exchange commission, this morning lauded the work of Raymond P. Dohr, district attorney, in the case.

"Mr. Dohr gave us efficient, competent and faithful service in what he knew was a hard job," Harriman said. "His cooperation greatly aided us in our investigation."

Harriman said that Bacon's books showed a few securities but that his division has no authority over their distribution among Bacon's clients. He said, however, that this amount is small.

Selling Subsidies On Exchange but Activity Dwindles

New York—(P)—Selling subsidized in the stock market today, and several issues recovered 50 cents to $2 a share, but trading slackened to the smallest volume since the mid-summer bull market started June 20.

The firming of prices, after yesterday's setback of $1 to $3, however, brought new encouragement to Wall street, where brokers had been talking of a measure of a reaction, or sideways movement, to "digest" the sweeping gains of the past three weeks.

Sales for the two-hour session were less than half last Saturday's turnover of more than 1,400,000 shares.

Await Start of Second Phase of Expedition

Lee's Ferry, Ariz.—(P)—Innoculated against fear by 18 dramatic days of plunging down one of the west's mightiest rivers, two women, one of them nearing middle age, awaited eagerly today the start of the second half of the Colorado river descent to quiet waters behind Boulder Dam, Nevada.

Informed that the six-member scientific expedition still has the turbulent rapids of the Grand canyon to navigate, 40-year-old Elzaida Clover, plump University of Michigan polioist, said:

"We know what to expect. Rapids, frightened me when the trip started but now I know how to help handle the boat."

Her 25-year-old assistant, Lois Jotter, was eager to get underway. "I'm not worried," she said. "The trip's been exciting and swell. It looks as though Dr. Clover and I will be the first women to conquer the Colorado."

Barn Fire Causes Damage of $4,000

Building Housing Machinery and Hay Burns to Ground Near Weyauwega

Weyauwega—Fire yesterday afternoon destroyed the large barn, housing farm machinery and 14 tons of hay at the Louis Regel farm, route 2, Weyauwega. The loss, which is covered by insurance, is estimated at $4,000.

The flames were discovered by Mrs. Regel, who was alone at the farm home at the time, about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Flames got beyond control before nearby farmers could be summoned and efforts were confined to saving other farm buildings.

All the hay and machinery were destroyed. A horse was the only animal in the barn at the time of the fire and it was led to safety.

The fire, it is believed, started from spontaneous combustion in the hay which recently was stored in the building.

County to Underwrite Pageant of Lions Club

The executive committee of the county board at the courthouse yesterday voted to underwrite the Northwest pageant, to be shown here under auspices of the Lions club, to the extent of $300. A request that the county underwrite the affair to the extent of $400 was requested by a Lions committee.

Walter Roloff, acting receiver for the Moloch Foundry and Machine company, and other representatives of the committee appeared before the committee and asked that taxes and interest against the company be reduced from about $34,700 to approximately $18,000. Action was deferred until next Wednesday when the committee will pay an inspection trip to the plant.

Bills amounting to $79.48 were allowed.

Build Footings For Park Stadium

Select Southeast Corner of Field as New Site for Structure

New London — Footings for the athletic field stadium at Hatten Memorial park were started this week by the WPA crew at work. The location of the stadium has been changed by agreement of the park board from squarely in the center of the south wall to diagonally across the southeast corner of the field. The new position provides a more convenient arrangement of the park facilities and allows more playing area in the field.

Sinking of a well under the site of the stadium also has been started by the Hintz brothers, Theodore and Dave. The drillers reached a good supply of water earlier this week but found it sandy and are now seeking a different stream around the 125 foot level.

About 20 men will be working on the stadium proper. It is expected to be completed by this fall.

Other work in progress around the park includes the erection of a mile-long stone fence marking the west boundary of the park limits. The wall will be four feet high, of dry stone capped with concrete.

The roadway circling the park also is being banked with flat sandstone and this job is nearly completed.

Charge Against Tavern Operator Is Dismissed

New London — The charge against William Alden New London tavern operator, of allowing a posted man to loiter in his tavern, was dismissed by Waupaca County Judge A. M. Scheller at Waupaca yesterday. Abel was arraigned in police court here by New London authorities several weeks ago and pleaded guilty to await sentence from the higher court.

At Waupaca yesterday he entered a plea of nolo contendere and after reconsidering the evidence Judge Scheller asked for a motion of dismissal. Evidence presented showed that the posted man in question was in the tavern only three minutes.

Man Loses Part of One Finger in Farm Accident

New London — Emmet Allen, route 3, New London, lost the end of the ring finger on his left hand as the result of an accident while unloading hay on his farm yesterday. His left hand was accidentally drawn into a pulley, tearing the flesh on the one finger so badly that amputation at the first joint was necessary. He was attended by a local physician.

Traveling Group Gives Program on Religion

New London — A traveling group of Latter Day Saints presented an illustrated talk on the foundation of their belief at Franklin Square park last evening. A screen was set up on the band stand and colored pictures were projected. An amplified speaker system attracted a small group of listeners.

Hundreds Are Expected At Annual Grange Picnic

Manawa — An attendance running into the hundreds, with a possibility that it may reach the 1,000 mark, is expected at the annual Grange picnic to be held on the grounds of the Waupaca County Poor Farm in the town of Little Wolf three miles south of Manawa next Thursday, July 14. The event is sponsored by all the Grange in the county, including the organizations at Crystal Lake, Northland, St. Lawrence, and Royaltown, together with the Pamona Grange.

Included on the program will be readings, musical selections both vocal and instrumental, an address by a widely known speaker, and other numbers. Games and outdoor sports for young and old will be provided. An invitation is extended everyone to pack a picnic lunch, bring the entire family, and spend the day at the Grange celebration. Free coffee will be served. The final of this annual event will again be the dance held at Bear Lake on the evening of Thursday, July 14. Music will be furnished by Ralph Zimmerman and his orchestra.

A. W. Ritchie is general chairman of the picnic and will be in charge of the program. P. O. Peterson heads the grounds committee, and R. A. VanAestine the dance committee. The Crystal Lake Grange will have charge of games and sports throughout the day.

Inoculation Center

The second of the two centers for protection against smallpox and diphtheria for infants past six months of age and for children of pre-school age will be held in the grade school building at Manawa on Friday, July 22, between the hours of 9 and 10 o'clock in the morning.

Since the county has a small reserve fund, any parents who failed to bring in their children to the first vaccination clinic because of the 50 cent charge may bring them on July 22, if they cannot pay the fee, announces Miss Estelle Jung, public health nurse of Waupaca county.

Children who have been immunized against diphtheria at some previous date may come for smallpox vaccination. Any parents whose children have been vaccinated and given one dose of toxoid to prevent against diphtheria may come in, if they desire, to have a second dose given.

The White School association will hold its second annual reunion at Ogdensburg, Sunday, July 17. The program will be given on the Old Settlers' picnic grounds, except in case of rain when it will be held in the I. O. O. F. hall. A reunion dance will be held Saturday evening, July 16, in the hall for former students and friends.

Sunday's program will begin at 1 o'clock. Places will be provided for everyone who desires to bring a picnic lunch. There will be games and other amusements for everyone. Officers and members of the association are working hard to make this outstanding event and urge all former teachers, students, and friends to attend.

High Producing Holsteins Being Shown at State Outing at Chilton

Forest Junction — Pure bred Holsteins from the herds of Leonard Seybold and Harry Sennel constitute the greater part of the local exhibit in the Black and White show which Calumet county breeders are staging in connection with the annual state picnic of Holstein breeders at the fair grounds at Chilton today.

Among the five head being shown from the Seybold herd are Cherrybold Erskine Colantha, which, on an average test of 3.6, has a three year average of over 450 pounds of butterfat, and Cherrybold Pieterje Bess, 6-year old cow, which has a record of 502 pounds of butterfat.

Six head are being shown from the Harry Sennel herd. Other local exhibitors are Arthur Schnell, Elmer Kloehe and Karl Kloehe, each showing one.

Ten pupils of Longfellow school, district 4, town Brill, were to appear on the entertainment program of picnic, repeating a mimic radio broadcast which the group gave at the school's Christmas observance here last winter. The pupils were directed by Mrs. Harvey Just of Wayside, teacher of the school during the last term.

Speakers at the picnic were to be A. C. Oosterhuis, president of the Holstein Friesian Association of

Reckless Motorboat Driving Charge Is Dismissed in Court at Waupaca

Waupaca — The charge of "careless, reckless and negligent driving" on the Chalmers of Lakes, was brought against Hobart Edmunds, Wisconsin Veterans Home, by Lieutenant Colonel Carl Brosius, provo marshal of the Home, in the court of S. W. Johnson, justice of the peace. Court convened at 2 o'clock and the case was dismissed at 3:55 Friday afternoon.

District Attorney Paul Roman contended that on June 12 at about supper time, the 12-foot boat in which Brosius was fishing was swamped as it lay at anchor 100 yards from the Veterans' Home docks, when Hobart Edmunds sped within fifty feet of him. Defense Counsel Edward Hart endeavored to prove that Edmunds was driving his boat in other waters and that Brosius was mistaken about the identity of the speed boat driver.

Witnesses for the complainant included Daniel R. Sayles and Lyle Nolo, who were fishing in the same vicinity when the incident occurred. John Peterson and Walter Wittig, who saw it from the shore. Sayles said it was "very disconcerting," and Nolo declared that the

THE PRESIDENT AND THE SENATE

Of the many precedents Mr. Roosevelt has broken since his first day in the White House some no doubt merited a fall on the floor.

But the President's assumption that he may properly participate in state conventions or primaries held to nominate democratic senators has always been looked upon throughout our history as fraught with special dangers which have become greatly multiplied since the party in power uses the national treasury for its campaign fund.

Mr. Roosevelt advanced in justification of his conduct a pretty wan and sickly distinction. He said his participation was not as President but as leader of the Democratic party. This ought to be a good suggestion to his son James, prize insurance salesman of the nation. James doesn't sell insurance as a Roosevelt, nor as secretary to the President, but only in his capacity as member of an insurance firm.

If the President may nominate Democratic senators in one state merely to do his bidding he surely has the right to nominate them in all states. And carrying such reason to its logical conclusion we find the senators more agents of the President than of the people.

Moreover, under our peculiar and particular form of government as it still exists on paper, the senate, more than any other body or institution, was carefully carved out to watch over the President, and given special power to approve his treaties and his many important appointments in order that they might become legal and effective.

If, by reason of his prestige as chief executive or his power created by treasury control, the President may add to the already enormous influence he is bound to have with every member of his party in the senate he will become a veritable menace as will anyone, irrespective of name or party who finds no barriers to the accomplishment of every purpose an imperious will may dictate.

History does not call such men by the title of President. Rather do they become known as Tiberius or Augustus for the completeness of their sway over a nation. They might preserve ancient democratic forms either for the sake of tradition or to please the people, who might resent the shock of being too quickly wrenched away from a system known to be good, but of what service is a mere form if the senate becomes a group of fawning sycophants?

WISCONSIN AND ITS RAILWAY TAX BILL

In 1930 the railroads of Wisconsin were valued by our Tax Commission at 360 millions. This year their valuation is put at 207 millions. This drop of 153 millions represents a lessened revenue to the state of several million dollars in taxes. Since the state continues to spend, and sometimes with abandon, the rest of the people must dig down in their jeans and somehow cover this deficit.

But do not think railway taxes are lighter because the state's charge is necessarily less. The federal government makes up, and usually more, than the state retires.

This all looks bad. But don't forget the good times we had trimming the railroads. Think of all the fun, the political meetings and speeches, the mopping brows and clenching fists that damned the railroads and told what hellions they were and how they were destroying our government and robbing our people. Wasn't the applause we gave the political spellbinders swell?

Those were the days! And what grand parties we had and how we thrilled with Nazi excitement as we destroyed our "enemies."

But now the party is over and the headache has begun. We have wellnigh wrecked the railroads. We have gone so far in that direction that political leaders no longer think of using the railroads for political capital. But since all leaders must have some sort of thunder, as Stalin has Trotsky and Hitler has Stalin, our bestowal of triumph must fall on him who finds a new scapegoat and uses it as effectively as the railroads were used.

Perhaps it may seep through some people's mind that in a common country where opportunity is always open to those who are alert and energetic, the destruction of any legitimate and lawful business or its serious impairment is an injury to all.

AMERICA AND THE NEXT WAR

Whenever there is appearance of war of serious proportions articles appear all over the country written for the purpose of impressing Americans with the fact that extensive armed conflicts are bound to disturb us despite their remoteness of location.

The next thought these articles develop is a reminder that our country is both fertile and wealthy, in fact the richest national prize in the world and that the envy of others will center upon and finally make of us the main target.

These ideas are often scattered in the best of faith, and no doubt they carry many forms of truth but their natural result is to create among the American people a conclusion that a serious world conflict is positively bound to eventually spread to these shores and that therefore it were wiser for the country to enter the lists early that the fire may be quenched before it licks its way hither.

These thoughts were used as propaganda over 20 years ago and bear part of the guilt for our active, needless and thankless participation in the World War. There is no particle of criticism of France, Britain or others because of their industrious attempt to sow this thought among us. Fighting for victory, so essential in national life, they are certainly entitled to cry, as they did, "If we fall, you are next." But whatever nations may be involved, or wherever the conflict begins, we must examine much more carefully and cautiously into the declaration that the victor will turn upon and crush America.

Let us at least see to it that we visualize realistically any victor, however armed or defiant, transferring to these shores and supporting with provisions and arms a sufficient host of almost unnumbered millions that would be necessary to crush the nearly endless supply of men and munitions that could be put forth from among our 130 million people.

No conqueror could subdue America unless he had theretofore overcome the resistance of the rest of the world. He would have already succeeded where every predecessor from Caesar and Xerxes to Genghis Khan and Napoleon had failed, and failed utterly.

There is no such thing as a world conqueror. There never was. Heaven has decreed otherwise.

We occupy the favored position in the world, self-supporting and buttressed by the unconquerable tides. If our people want to go to war because they think war is a good thing, let them do so. But never let it be said again that they went to Europe or Asia or to Africa to participate in a war in order to protect themselves.

A PROBLEM FOR BREWERS

The National Boxing Association has rated Two-ton Tony Galento as second only to Joe Louis and therefore a step ahead of Maxie Baer.

Two-ton Tony is a wild man who trains on beer and spaghetti, and when he gets in the ring he is tempted to eat the canvas off the floor and tear the ropes apart although he reserves that bit of exercise until after he has pounded his adversary into a dreamless sleep.

We have some pretty big brewers in this country. And we have national manufacturers of spaghetti. Two-ton Tony is the greatest piece of good fortune that has come to either such concerns since prohibition was carried out the back door and dumped into the alley.

In the good old days there was a constant argument concerning the efficacy of beer for training purposes. Some said it made 'em tough and some said it didn't. There was no confusion about spaghetti because at that time the Italians who came to America had not had time to make it popular. But it seems appropriate to raise the old issue and have it decided in good old American fashion by a joust between its noble knights, Two-ton Tony upholding the beer keg and Joe Louis defending the virtues of spring water.

We have no purpose of uncovering old sores and are willing enough to let bygones be bygones. But with Two-ton Tony rinsing out his throat with a gallon of beer after every fight, and all to the clicks of numerous cameras, it does not seem that the issue can be long averted.

Such a contest would not only settle the always knotty problem about which is the better fighter but would put at rest an age-old controversy that might at some future time disrupt the nation.

And if the brewers know their groceries as well as the spaghetti makers they may prepare plans for additions if Two-ton Tony delivers the right wallop in the right place at the right time.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

SINCE BABY CREEPS

Since Baby creeps around the house,
There is no bright bouquet
Upon the coffee table for
Small hands to sweep away.
The magazines are placed up high,
The trays that might break,
And sharp-edged ornaments are moved
For one small baby's sake.
What fun to watch his pilgrimage
From front to kitchen door!
He is an animated ray
Of sunlight on the floor!
He pulls himself up by my chair,
The happy little elf,
As if to promise he will soon
Be walking by himself.

Dale Harrison's In Old New York

New York—Albert Tangora, the speed demon of the typewriter keys, didn't defend his world's speed championship at Chicago last month for two reasons:
"I wasn't afraid of anyone beating my all-time speed record of 141 words a minute," he said, "and besides I've been too busy to go into training."

A speed typist, Tangora said, must train for a championship test more industriously even than a heavyweight prizefighter. To be ready for the one hour of speed typing, a conscientious typist trains three hours a day for four or five months, and the three hours are at top speed without pause.

Tangora learned typing in his native Paterson, New Jersey, but now lives at the Hotel New Yorker where he told me:

"Men make better typists than women. They are stronger. There hasn't been a woman champion since 1917."

"The typist who is relaxed is a better one than he who 'fights' his typewriter."

"Maximum speed demands correct posture. The desk top should be 29 inches from the floor. The seat of the chair should be 16 1/2 to 17 inches high. The feet should be flat on the floor to permit correct tension of finger muscles. The back should be straight and motionless."

Tangora believes music is a great help to student typists.

"Practically all Swing music is excellent training material," he said. "Swing is rhythm, and rhythm is essential for typist training."

He mentioned "Dipsy Doodle" as a tune that would help to make a hot typist hotter. "But 'Yankee Doodle' or 'Dixie' will do just as well," he added. "Just be sure to have rhythm."

In setting the new speed record last year, Tangora typed 8,762 words in an hour—43,809 strokes—with only 32 errors, for an average of 141 words a minute, or 127 strokes per second. The champion woman typist, incidentally, is also a New Yorker, though not at the Hotel New Yorker. She is Stella Willins of Brooklyn, who did 123 words a minute last year.

In another suite of the hotel I found a 15-year-old French mademoiselle who is having America spread out before her for approval. If she likes it, she'll stay. If she doesn't, then back she goes to her grandmother's home in Nantes, France.

Betty Trompeter has never been to America before, and hasn't seen her American father, Lewis J. Trompeter of Baltimore, in 12 years. Daddy would like to have Betty—who speaks no English—come to America to live. He gave her a motor tour that took in the big sections of America as far west as the Mississippi, and now he is showing her Manhattan.

As yet the young lady hasn't indicated whether we come up to her specifications. Even the skyscrapers have failed to disturb her.

"It's all very amazing," she said, in French, "but it doesn't frighten me a bit."

It isn't the buildings you need be afraid of, Betty; it's the people in 'em.

John D. Rockefeller III, whose deep interest in prison welfare work has carried him into many gloomy gaols, found in them one class of Americans which isn't impressed one way or another with the Rockefeller name.

Interviewing hundreds of prisoners, the grandson of the late "John D." was always introduced by name.

"At first," he said, "I was afraid the name 'John D. Rockefeller' would awe the men, or affect them in some way, but it never did. Most of the time the prisoners gave no sign that they ever had heard the name before."

The most incongruous noise in New York these hot nights comes from the sleighbells the ice cream-on-a-stick peddlers ring to attract the attention of apartment dwellers. Hearing them, one instinctively thinks of sleighs and snows and ice and Santa Claus. Thinking thus, one shivers. Shivering, one doesn't want any ice cream.

Or maybe I'm too fussy.

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Saturday, July 7, 1928

Falling 50 feet into an empty oats bin at the Appleton Cereal mills. W. College avenue, about 9:30 that morning, Paul Christensen, 314 E. Pacific street, escaped serious injury. He was working for the Appleton Wrecking company.

Nomination papers for Walter J. Kohler, candidate for Republican nomination as governor, had been received in the city and were being circulated by Republican workers.

The exterior structural work on the addition to the Conway hotel was rapidly nearing completion. The addition was a 2-story structure of reinforced concrete and brick.

Dr. William George Keller, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. William Keller, 1014 N. Division street, had been graduated from the two year course of the Northern Illinois College of Optometry at Chicago and was to be associated with his father at 121 W. College avenue.

25 YEARS AGO

Two inches of rain fell during a cloudburst the morning of Sunday, July 13. The streets resembled small rivers and umbrellas were about as much use as paper napkins during the downpour.

John A. Fose was a winner of a diamond ring given at the Bijou theater.

Col. H. A. Ambach of Cheboygan, Mich., formerly of Kaukauna and head of the Cheboygan Paper company, experimented with the new work schedule, shutting down his plant Saturday and resuming work the following Monday morning, and was of the opinion that it worked satisfactorily.

The families of Medill McCormick and Richard Whitmer, the two youths who lost their lives in attempting a mountain climbing feat in New Mexico, have the sympathy of a large newspaper-reading public. The accounts of their disappearance and the ensuing search were widely published and read.

They probably fell from the crest on opposite sides of the 5,000-foot Sandia Peak. Mountaineers say they may have been thrown in opposite directions by a bolt of lightning from a narrow ledge at the Peak's crest.

"Go into the wood with experienced woodsmen and into the mountains with experienced mountaineers," is old and good advice.—Detroit News.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—In connection with the current discussion of Jimmy Roosevelt's wealth and influence, some figures this correspondent gathered might be interesting.

Our information is that the young Roosevelt puts the "capitalized value" of his insurance business at $150,000 to $200,000. That is a somewhat elastic figure but at the time we obtained the figures we were told that his earnings from insurance were considerably less than the "capitalized value." This latter represented the amount at which he valued his business as a going concern.

In arriving at the capitalized value of a company this procedure is followed. A company may estimate that it is making a 10 per cent profit. Then its "capitalized value" becomes 10 times its earnings. Thus, if the company's earnings are $20,000 its "capitalized value" is $200,000.

Anyway, He's Got A Job

Reversing the process, a company with a "capitalized value" of $200,000 might be found to have earnings of $20,000, or anything else from nearly nothing to nearly 100 times the capitalized value.

But whether Jimmy's insurance business was valued for us on the basis of 10 per cent earnings or on some other figure can not be said.

Bits of further information coming to us indicate that he has a $15,000 equity in the $37,000 home he recently purchased at Framingham, Mass.; has $15,000 in securities, and a $10,000 trust fund set up for him by his father. In addition, his wife, Betsy, daughter of Dr. Harvey Cushing, a prominent Boston brain specialist, was described to us as having about $20,000 of her own.

Earnings on the securities and the trust, calculated at five per cent, would be $2,250. Besides this income, Jimmy of course gets $10,000 as secretary to the President.

Note On A Bus

At this point we turn to a little item that seems to indicate that literary talent may yet be blossoming in government bureaus, and please note that Walt Whitman once was a government clerk in Washington. We were riding in the bus that brings us to work from far off Maryland when the little brunette item sitting beside us wrote a neat bit in a small black book. No doubt she will sometime draw heavily on the little book in writing the great American novel.

What she wrote was, I am almost sure, a cauliflower body. It does seem to mean something.

And another thing, the Walter Johnsons certainly do eat cantaloupes. People who don't follow baseball may have forgotten that Johnson is considered by almost everybody as the greatest baseball pitcher who ever lived. We went by our favorite outdoor fruit market on the outskirts of Washington looking for cantaloupes.

"I'm sorry but I have only one left," said the manager. "Walter Johnson just came by and bought 32." We sucked in our breath and made proper examinations about people who buy 32 at a swat, but he said:

"Well, he has a pretty big family."

(Note: We didn't buy that remaining cantaloupe. It had a soft spot.)

Personal Health Talks

THEY'RE WARM

A reader who says her menopause occurred five years ago complains that she suffered almost unbearably with hot flashes attended with profuse sweating, sometimes as often as twice in an hour, sometimes only two or three spells in a day. She read something here about wheat germ and began eating wheat germ. She had been eating wheat germ for a week or so when the hot flashes began to diminish in frequency and intensity. In the course of two or three weeks they ceased altogether. She wondered why. Since the wheat germ was the only new thing she was taking she concluded her relief was due to that. So, unlike the average reader, she went to the trouble of writing to thank me and tell me of her happy relief.

In the past two years I have received numerous similar reports from women who have found blessed relief or complete freedom from hot flashes. In most instances they have obtained the relief, apparently, from supplementing their regular diet with yeast tablets containing the vitamin B and vitamin G of ordinary brewer's yeast plus 500 units of sunshine vitamin D in ultraviolet irradiation of pure cod liver oil. So I have inferred that the relief of hot flashes was due to the improved calcium metabolism brought about by increased intake of sunshine vitamin D.

Being only a doctor I may be mistaken in this. If two thousand women suffering with hot flashes associated with natural (not artificial or surgical) menopause will kindly volunteer for a harmless experiment we can settle the question and perhaps obtain knowledge which will be of great benefit for womenkind.

I suppose to place each alternate woman in one or another group. First group will merely supplement their ordinary diet with four ounces of wheat germ meal daily. This may be done in various dishes calling for flour or other cereal products, in recipes in place of one-half of the flour the recipe calls for, etc. Wheat germ is the richest natural food source of vitamin B, and a rich source of vitamin G, as well as vitamin E. Each ounce contains 300 to 350 units of vitamin B. Only richer source is dried brewer's yeast.

The second group will endeavor to include liberal amounts of the high-calcium foods in their diet, and supplement the diet with daily doses of calcium and vitamin D. Detailed instructions will be mailed to any woman who volunteers for the experiment.

If a woman and July 10, is your birthday, you probably can work much better alone than with a partner. Your ideas, although logical, might be very original and radical. You have, very likely, remarkable persuasive powers. You are apparently seldom ambiguous, your statements as a rule being sharp-cut and explicit. Your kindness ought to win you many admiring friends, and a reputation for always being ready to lend a helping hand. Through educational, literary, musical, dictatorial or dramatic work you might find a career that will make you successful financially. If your marriage is the result of true love, it ought to be a very fortunate and happy one.

The child born on July 10, is apt to combine the outstanding characteristics of both parents. If given the chances to demonstrate its ability, this youngster has a most promising future.

If a man and July 10, is your birthday, you must never permit discouragement to get the better of you. Take your losses and disappointments with a smile and Fate perhaps will compensate you liberally for both. You seem destined to be very successful, if you are persevering. As a lawyer, doctor, horticulturalist, naval or army man, journalist or author your accomplishments should win you flattering public acclaim and a large bank account.

'Cattle Raiders' Showing at Elite

Charles Starrett Heads Cast of Western Picture

Gun-totin' rustlers and hard-ridin' straight-shootin' cowboys blaze their way across the screen at the Elite Theatre today and Sunday in the initial showing of Charles Starrett's newest Columbia western drama, "Cattle Raiders."

Starrett, in the starring role, has never been seen to greater advantage. He portrays Tom Reynolds, a two-fisted, hell-bent-for-leather cowpuncher who is forced to hide out when unjustly accused of murder. Donald Grayson, whose superb tenor voice adds much to the charm of the picture, and Iris Meredith, auburn-haired leading lady, ably head the supporting cast.

Featured in "Cattle Raiders" are four new range ballads. Donald Grayson, singing tuckaroo, presents the songs, "Happy Cowboy," "Welcome to the Spring," "This Ain't the Same Old Range," and "The Devil's Great Grandson," accompanied by the Sons of the Pioneers.

Supporting Charles Starrett in addition to Don Grayson and Miss Meredith, are Dick Curtis, Allen Brook, and other favorites.

'City Streets' Will Head Twin Attraction

Edith Fellows and Leo Carrillo are gloriously re-united in "City Streets," comedy drama which heads the twin bill at the Rio Theatre Wednesday and Thursday. The film, a heart-warming moving picture of the sidewalk life of New York, is heartily recommended for its human, wholesome entertainment, its fine cast and splendid narrative.

Carrillo scores as usual with his amusing dialect, portraying a neighborhood Italian grocer. Edith is a distinct surprise. Heretofore usually seen as a spoiled brat, she now plays a sympathetic role, a crippled waif who is adopted by the good-natured Italian.

The story centers on the great sacrifice Carrillo makes to enable Edith to walk and play with other youngsters. Learning that a famous specialist in the city, he sells his store to meet the cost of an operation which produces no immediate benefit. Carrillo has stripped himself of his means of support and the welfare authorities take the girl away from him.

All the love, sympathy and human impulse of himself and neighborhood friends prove useless when pitted against the law, but the tide turns in a series of tense, fast-moving situations.

The struggle between law and order and crime in 1870 Arizona is excitingly and entertainingly depicted in "Gun Law," with George O'Brien in the starring role, and the added feature on this program.

The story deals with the exploits of O'Brien as a United States Marshal whose task is to smash an organized crime ring in a bandit-ridden cattle range. Sent to investigate a mysterious series of stagecoach robberies, O'Brien encounters a noted desperado dying on the desert. He impersonates the dead gunman when he arrives, instead of appearing in his real capacity.

This ruse leads to a romance, a hectic fist-fight, a hold-up, a bank robbery, an attempted lynching and half a dozen gun battles, making for swift-paced rapid action.

'Imitation of Life' to Open Here Wednesday

"Big... clean as a hound's tooth, strong in story, comedy, cast and productive value, this production should rate high." That is the opinion of Variety, the screen's farthest yet reverent critic, in its preview of Universal's "Imitation of Life." This feature starts Wednesday July 13 for a 3-day showing at the Appleton Theatre.

This Fannie Hurst best-seller, produced by that master of domestic drama, John M. Stahl, with Claudette Colbert and Warren William as his stars, has fully justified this author's estimate of it.

Claudette Colbert as "Bea" Pullman steps into this emotional role direct from her triumph as "Cleopatra," and makes it the outstanding characterization of her career. Fannie Hurst's intensely modern heroine lives and breathes through Miss Colbert's magic, and you see in her the embodiment of all young womanhood struggling with the problems of love and life to provide a livelihood for herself and baby daughter, and gaining only a love starved existence, an imitation of life.

The second feature on this program is "Love Before Breakfast," the Universal comedy hit starring Carole Lombard. Motion picture poster one of Carol's sweethearts and Cesar Romero is the other.

"Love Before Breakfast" is a meal ticket punched full of hearty laughs. There is a horseback riding scene which will make the men in the audience gloat, when they perceive a self-opinionated girl compelled to take a back seat, literally. The ocean scenes are irresistible, with more laughs than there are toots in a steamboat whistle. The battle in the night club is a howl for those who like their comedy "with a sock" in it.

Walter Lang directed "Love Before Breakfast," with a supporting cast including Janet Beecher, Betty Lawford, Richard Carle, Don Briggs, John King and Forrester Harvey.

Edith Fellows Cast As 'Miss Roughneck'

Edith Fellows, aided and abetted by Leo Carrillo, Scott Colton, Jacqueline Wells and Thurston Hall, is the wild-eyed mistress of ceremonies of Columbia's new comedy musical, "Little Miss Roughneck," which will show at the Elite theatre on Monday and Tuesday, bargain days.

Little Edith, recently featured in "She Married Her Boss," "Pennies From Heaven" and "Life Begins With Love," plays her first top featured role in this picture, singing

GRANT, HEPBURN TEAMED IN COMEDY

Revealing the amazing Katharine Hepburn as the exponent of complete entertainment, "Bringing Up Baby" opens Tuesday at the Rialto Theatre Kaukauna; it is a mad comedy that defies comparison with any picture released in the past. Teamed with Miss Hepburn is Cary Grant, who intensifies her reputation for comedy which he so brilliantly established in "The Awful Truth," "Murder On Diamond Row," starring Edmund Lowe is the associate feature, starting Tuesday.

'Port of 7 Seas' Showing at Rio

Wallace Beery Stars as Owner of Marseilles Waterfront Bar

A motion picture which is being heralded as something out of the ordinary in film entertainment, is now being offered at the Rio theatre in the showing of "Port of Seven Seas," starring Wallace Beery with a company of distinguished supporting players including Frank Morgan, Maureen O'Sullivan, John Beal and Jessie Ralph.

Beery is said to play one of his most unusual roles in the new drama in which he deviates from such outdoor characterizations as his "Bad Man of Brimstone" and "Viva Villa!" to enact the part of the owner of a bar on the Marseilles waterfront. It is a part reminiscent of his former work with the beloved Marie Dressler.

Filming of the picture entailed one of the most ambitious set construction projects attempted in some time, the sets covering more than six acres and including a replica of the famous quay in Marseilles, portions of the picturesque city itself, construction of boats and steamers, the marine bar and a hundred and one other details which bring to life scenes of the colorful French port. The set is described as being one of the largest constructed since the filming of "A Tale of Two Cities."

The screen's youngest "Mr. and Mrs." team, Wayne Morris and Priscilla Lane—who are plighted, incidentally, to become such a team in real life within the next year—come to the screen of the Rio Theatre in "Men Are Such Fools," the added feature on the current program.

The fact that the film was based on a Saturday Evening Post serial written by that expert delineator of life on the screen for the first time in her career.

The story maps the fun-filled Hollywood odyssey of a screen-struck child actress in charge of her sluttish, insufferable mother. Somewhere en route the little star-to-be decides to kidnap herself for the publicity involved and manages to accomplish a good deal more than that.

Miss Fellows portraying the child actress, sings several popular numbers. These include "As Long As I Love," by Ben Oakland and Milton Drake; "La Colondrina," a Mexican folk song, "The Wren" by Benedict and "Caro Nome" from Verdi's "Rigoletto."

Appleton Theater Showing 'Holiday'

Cary Grant, Katharine Hepburn Co-Star in New Picture

Columbia's "Holiday," with Katharine Hepburn as Linda Seton and Cary Grant as Johnny Case, comes to the Appleton Theater for a 4-day engagement starting today. The film, directed by George Cukor, is based on the highly successful Broadway stage play by Philip Barry.

"Holiday" is the story of a young debutante, stifled by wealth and family position, confused by the crowded and meaningless activity of a social life, who falls in love with a young man with a sense of humor and a sense of proportion. He thinks there is more to life than the accumulating of money for the sake of accumulating money, and he intends to continue his career no longer than he has to. He wants to retire while he is young and can still enjoy life.

Lew Ayres creates a new and attractive figure of himself as the insouciant brother, while Doris Nolan brings loveliness and a carefully toned touch of coolness to the role of the sister. Edward Everett Horton shows himself at his best as the very human Professor Potter, with Jean Dixon appearing as his wife. Their performance as Punch and Judy is something to remember. Binnie Barnes, Henry Daniell, and George Pauncefoot are others of the talented and well chosen cast.

Advance reports state that Miss Hepburn has never brought a finer characterization to the screen. Cary Grant, co-starred in "Holiday," is the first leading man ever to appear opposite the actress for a second time.

The second feature on this program is "Air Devils," starring Larry Blake, Dick Purcell, Beryl Wallace and Mamo Clark. "Air Devils" is a constantly exciting comedy-drama of life and love on a glamorous South Sea Island. Thrills, laughs and breath-taking action are interspersed with scenes of sheer romantic glamour.

Island natives are misled to revolt because a U. S. airport is to be built on their territory and there is plenty of action and intrigue, all planes zoom in for a surprise smash climax.

Veterans' Relief for Month Amounts to $477

Thirty-nine veterans on soldiers and sailors relief during June received and totaling $477.18, according to a report of Edward E. Lutz, Outagamie county service officer. Five new applications for entrance in the veteran's hospital were received during the month. Lutz investigated 32 relief cases, made 75 home calls, interviewed 75 office callers and traveled 1,579 miles on duty during the month.

'LORD JEFF' COMING TO APPLETON

The thrills, joys and juvenile tragedies of a British merchant marine training school for boys form the background for "Lord Jeff," new story of the sailors of tomorrow, with Freddie Bartholomew and Mickey Rooney, which opens July 16 at the Appleton Theatre. Freddie portrays a youngster, tool of crooks, who is represented as a young neophyte and who finds regeneration and friendship when sent to the nautical training school where Mickey Rooney, as a student petty officer, is first his Nemesis, then his friend. Several hundred boys appear as students. Thrills of must climbing, the annual navy cutter race, sequences aboard the Queen Mary and other maritime thrills mingle with the human comedy and drama of the story. Players include Charles Coburn, Herbert Mundin and Gale Sondergaard.

The companion feature will be "Fast Company" starring Melvyn Douglas and Florence Rice.

Tenth Annual Summer Meeting July 30 and 31 At Waupaca

Waupaca — Mrs. J. Martin Johnson, Ripon, state president of the Wisconsin Federation of Garden Clubs was the guest of honor at a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Charles Brannan Friday afternoon. Other guests were the Mesdames Edward Hart, Orville Peterson, P. J. Christofferson, Sam Salan, C. H. Cristy, Theodore Peterson, Waupaca and Mrs. Zella Jaeger, Ripon.

Plans for the tenth summer meeting of the Federation of Garden Clubs were formulated. The meeting will be held July 30 and 31 in Waupaca. Nearly 200 garden lovers are expected.

Following registration which will be arranged near the tourist information bureau and will be in charge of Mrs. P. J. Christofferson, a picnic luncheon is to be held at Whispersing, near the home of Mrs. Christofferson, on Main lake. A brief program is to follow the luncheon and then a conducted tour of gardens around the lakes. Boy Scouts will direct strangers to the various gardens. A campfire in the evening is also to be at Whispersing Pines, and at that time Dr. Charles Brown, secretary of the Wisconsin Historical Society and Prof. C. M. Huffer of Madison will be the high light of the program. The former will talk on the history of the Chain O' Lakes region and the latter on the stars.

The yield was so large that many fields were allowed to ripen and will be harvested for seed peas for next year.

Shorts for Sand

Schiaparelli's version of summer shorts for beach and country is made of black jersey and trimmed with bands of shocking pink. It is worn with a short sleeved shirt of the same material, black clogs and a broad-brimmed straw hat suggestive of the nineties.

Vacation Activities Should Be Worthwhile

BY ANGELO PATRI

Vacation from school means a full day somewhere else and mothers have to plan ahead for this occupation of long summer days. This is our outdoor season, the happiest of all for children, and it is a pity not to make every day of it count for the growth of the children. I say growth because summer time is their best growing time, but if they are not kept healthily occupied they are not going to grow as they should. Idleness breeds unhappiness, and unhappy children do not grow as rapidly and with the same quality as happy children.

It is not hard to keep children normally happy. All one has to do is to keep them busy at things they like to do for the greater part of the time. I do not mean that they are to do nothing all day, but what they choose to do. That is impossible. But the schedule ought to be based on what the children most want to do, apart from the regular home routine.

One mother in a neighborhood cannot be truly successful in making a summer schedule for her children all by herself. Her children play with the neighbors' children; they plan and work together; they enjoy things together. No one child or one family of children can ignore the neighborhood children and get anywhere worthwhile in a vacation at home. The cooperation of the group is needed.

If the mothers held a meeting over a tea table; if they discussed the children's needs and hopes, and decided on how they could manage to further those needs and hopes working together, the children might have a better chance to use this delightful vacation span. Mothers, who work together in Mother's Clubs and in Parent-Teacher Associations, know how to go about this. Those who have no such unit

Smother Play Is Explained

BY ELY CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: The time and place: A rainy afternoon at the club. The retired colonel is attacking his objective, a small clam. His flanks harried by two apparently unconquerable queens, he is calling up all the experience acquired in bridge battles to find a way to dislodge one of them. Suddenly inspiration comes. The present battle lines originally were as follows:

"East dealer.
"Both sides vulnerable.

"East opened with a vulnerable call for four hearts. The colonel (South) bid four spades. West passed. North raised to five, and the colonel, never having refused a slam invitation in his pugnacious career, went to six.

"West led the heart four and the colonel trumped. He led a small spade to the ace, just in case East held the lone queen, as East's bidding hinted he was short in spades. When East showed out it looked as though the spade and diamond queens would have to be conceded, but right there the colonel got his inspiration. He led a heart from dummy and ruffed. He then led the spade jack, whereupon West roared with laughter and taunted: 'No you don't, colonel! This lady will be around after the ace is dead and gone.'

"Mr. Blank," said the colonel distinctly, witheringly, 'I'll bet you the drinks your queen will not take a trick!'

"The wager was accepted and the battle was on. Four rounds of clubs were played, on the last of which dummy and East discarded hearts. The diamond ace and king were cashed and then the trap was sprung. The colonel existed with his last diamond and East was in with the queen. East, of course, had to return a heart. Declarer ruffed with the spade ten and West was smothered. If he overrudded, dummy's ace would overruff him and declarer's jack would take the concluding trick. If he underrudded, dummy would let go the diamond and the spade ace would conclude the festivities.

"The colonel had won his bet. The spade queen had not taken a trick and the drinks were on West. 'Yours truly, K. L. D., Chicago.'

My congratulations to the colonel are no less heartily merely because I think I remember this hand as one devised by my friend Sidney Lenz many years ago. It is one of the classic examples of "smother play" and, of course, depends on a rather fortunate layout of cards. West, for example, must have four clubs and East must be the one that is thrown on lead with the third diamond. If West would take the lead he could return a low spade and thus avoid being smothered.

Nevertheless I appreciate the contribution and offer the hand as a highly interesting one, despite the cloud around its origin.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

These glorious July days may be play days for some but they are job-hunting days for many.

Just this week a girl over thirty came to me in sheer desperation. She needed a job and couldn't get one.

"I am a secretary," she said, "with eight years of experience here and there. I'm not keen about secretarial work, but I'll take any job. I simply have got to work! Yet every place I apply they more or less tell me they want a younger girl. What shall I do?"

Her plight is a common one to girls over thirty who, married or single, find it necessary to seek employment this summer. When industry slackens, jobs become scarce and applicants for the jobs increase. It is quite obvious why the younger girl is preferred. She asks a smaller salary, she is more easily trained to the work, she has no home ties to distract her during the day, and usually she is more attractive because she is about ten years younger! All in all she is still competition for the older girl.

Good Impression Vital

If the girl who sought my advice had asked me for a job I would not have given her one. Why? First of all she had let herself grow discouraged. I know it isn't easy to show enthusiasm when your stomach aches with food and your room rent is due. But where will she get by showing her troubles to a prospective employer? He has his own. He will hire good spirits more quickly than experience. He does not want to look up from a knotty problem and see a drab, discouraged female dragging herself around his office, does he? "I'm not keen about secretarial work," she had said. Well that's just too bad if she wants a job as a secretary!

Old Gardener Says:

Red spider does much damage to certain evergreens, particularly when the weather is dry. When junipers and spruce trees turn rusty at this season, the presence of red spider is to be suspected. The pest is very small. In fact, it is almost invisible, but it is capable of ruining the appearance of a specimen evergreen. The simplest remedy is the use of water from the hose, which should be directed against all the branches several times a week, preferably with considerable force. Red spider will seldom appear if this practice is kept up throughout the summer. The use of water is especially necessary when the rainfall is light, for, as has been indicated, the pest works most freely in dry weather.

makes things easier for everybody concerned. It will relieve mothers of many a heavy burden such as the one presented when a protesting child cries, "Everybody else can do it. I'm the only one that has to stay out of the fun all the time." "Everybody's doing it" is a fine slogan when that everybody is doing is what the mothers have agreed upon their doing.

This is the time for volunteers for the service of children. Retired teachers who enjoy supervising a play-hour or staging a pageant or fair; retired policemen, those eminently fitted souls who see through the backs of their heads and sense trouble before it gets a start, are the perfection of playground supervisors. Young college graduates between school and life responsibilities, and check full of life and energy and idealism, are precisely the leaders needed for outings. And mothers divided into committees are the source of leadership for all. There is no need for wasting the two best months of children's lives in idleness. Everybody must get busy, especially the school children.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamp, addressed envelope for reply.

A Little Saturday Talk

A 12-year-old girl named Connie Morrison has asked me a question which is hard to answer. "What was the first religion on earth?" she writes.

I wish I could give a simple answer, but no one is certain of the answer. People of the Stone Age did not write books, so if they had a religion of one kind or another they haven't told us about it.

There are some reasons to believe that sun-worship was the first thing that could be called a religion. The warm and kindly sun heats our earth, and gives it lights by day, so there is little wonder that early men often gave it worship. The priests known as "Druids" seem to have led their people in worship of the sun. It seems fairly clear that the great stone circle at Stonehenge, in southern England, dates back some thousands of years, and that it was used for sun-worship.

The oldest religions of which we have clear records are those of Egypt and Babylonia. Those records tell us of things which were believed more than 5,000 years ago.

In Egypt the people honored many gods, and some goddesses. A deity known as Ra (pronounced Rah) was the chief god, at least for a long period. He was supposed to manage the sun in its daily journey around the earth. Another god was named Osiris, and was said to rule over the spirits who went to the Egyptian heaven. An important goddess was called Isis.

Records for the part of Babylonia as first known as Sumeria go back just about as far as those of Egypt.

The Egyptian and Sumerian religions are no longer followed. Their gods and goddesses have passed from the scene, and we know about them mainly because of what was written down on tablets of stone or clay, or on papyrus, the Egyptian paper.

Of the living religions of the world, two seem to have the best claims to being the oldest. The Hindu and Hebrew faiths go back more than 3,000 years.

The Buddhist religion is more widely followed than any other in Asia, and is about 2,500 years of age. Confucianism, a religion of a special kind, is about 2,500 years old, and so is Taoism, another faith of Asia. Christianity is a little more than 1,900 years old, and Mohammedanism dates back about 1,450 years.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

Who is going to hire her knowing she will have little interest in her work? Not a soul!

No, the girl over thirty who has let herself down must pick herself up. Perhaps she has to begin with thinking. She must think she is needed that she is good at her work, that there is a job for her some place. Then she must make herself just as lovely looking as she possibly can within her means.

Any girl can exercise herself back to health, put color in her cheeks and a sparkle in her eyes. She can pamper her hair by brushing, shampooing it at home, drying it in the sun. She can keep her clothes clean, neatly mended and, if her funds are very low, rely on an inexpensive collar and cuffs to freshen the one dress she wears job-hunting.

She must approach each prospective employer with a feeling of assurance, an eagerness for the job and make him feel she is capable, experienced and a person he needs to have around. It can be done—you older girls—but if you don't take yourselves in hand your future is not rosy. Just think of the thousands of girls over thirty who are holding down jobs—how do you suppose they do it?

Unwanted Wife Hangs Onto Husband for Meal Ticket

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—A friend of mine is genuinely in love with a man who made a rash marriage in his extreme youth. This man has outgrown his wife, who, in fact, ceased to be his wife in the real meaning of the term before my friend met him. The wife admits that she does not love her husband, but has no idea of relinquishing a soft berth and has given him no legal cause for complaint. In a deadlock such as this, what are the two persons to do who feel that their only happiness is in each other? No children are involved. All three of these people are young.

A. H.

Answer:

It is far beyond my poor ability to solve this great tragic problem of life. The law tells us that marriage is a binding legal contract, and that because we have made a loving bargain we have no right to break it. The church tells us that marriage is a sacrament and that the vows which we made at the altar we cannot take back.

But human nature cries out that it is cruel that we should be punished more for the mistakes that we have made in all good faith and that we often make in the blundering ignorance of extreme youth than we would be for the most heinous sin that we could commit. Our common sense asks what morality there is in a man and woman living together who have come to hate each other; what good end to society is subserved in binding two persons together who bring out all that is worst in each other's characters; who is one home of discord worth more to the world than two homes in which there are love, peace and happiness?

As I have said, I am not wise enough even to attempt to settle this question, but Rupert Hughes discusses it most illuminatingly in his novel, "We Live But Once." He takes exactly this same human angle—the first man who marries an inferior woman who does not even attempt to do her duty as a wife, who is selfish and silly, narrow and petty in every way. The man outgrows his wife and ceases to care for her. She grows equally tired of him because there is no congeniality between them, but she hangs on to him with a death grip because he is her meal ticket.

Then the man meets the other woman—big, broad, capable of an overwhelming passion. The two fall in love with each other, and the question is how to deal fairly with the wife. The man talks the matter over with his wife and proposes what he calls a "friendly divorce"—both to accept the situation like intelligent human beings, to realize that they are not responsible for the fact that their childish romance has petered out into nothingness, and that they no longer love each other, to go to part without animosity, without bitterness, without scandal and mud-slinging. He offers to give her what money he has and tells her that he is securing her happiness as well as his own, because she will find some man who will fill her needs for a life companion far better than he does.

In the end this proves the solution of the problem in this individual case. A man with more money than the husband of a more flippant type bobs up and the wife, with a new headlight diamond on her finger in place of the pin-point sparkler she has worn, goes off to get a smart Paris divorce and everybody is happy.

This is a very modern solution of the divorce question. In a case where the wife does not love the husband she always has her price, whether it be money or another man, and it is only a question of paying it. This may be a cynical and cold-blooded way of looking at the matter, but it's a way that probably would work in the case you cite.

But when the wife still loves the man who has grown weary of her and who has outgrown her, then God alone knows what he ought to do, and whether the happiness of one poor, weak, feeble creature should be considered before that of the two who are stronger and more intelligent and more capable of grappling with the world. Only how is she to be saved anyhow? What madness is there for the unwanted wife with the husband she is holding against his will?

DEAR MISS DIX—This question is being hotly debated in our office. Will you settle it for us? Are blondes less to be trusted than brunets? Are blondes less loyal in love than brunets, and do they resort to trickery in winning men?

WONDERING

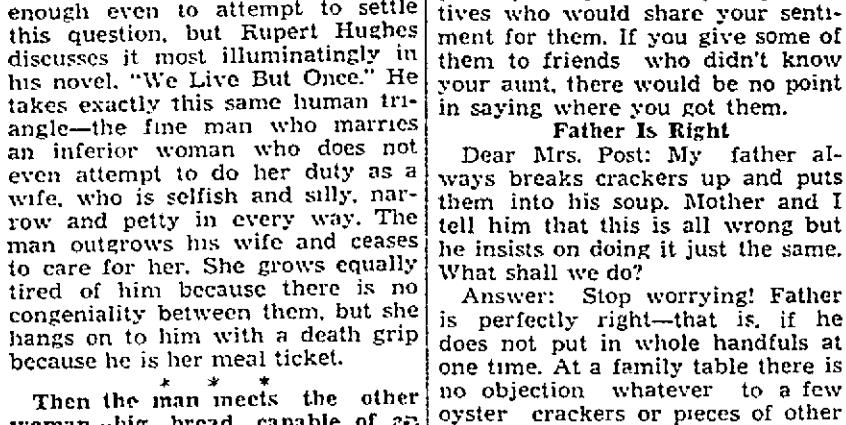

Answer:

Anita Loos says that gentlemen prefer blondes, and she made her irresistible blonde a gold-digger, who was a cheerful worker. Miss Loos explained that she did not refer to the color of the girl's hair and complexion, but to her soul, which was blonde if you get what she means. But I don't think you can judge a woman's character by her coloring.

I have known brunets who were hold-up artists and girls with golden locks who were as unselfish as angels. I have known oliveskin girls with black hair and dusky eyes who were as meek as Patient Griselda and girls with rose-leaf complexions who were as tempestuous and temperamental as they make them.

You have to judge a girl by her character and disposition, not by the pigments that nature puts at the roots of her hair or under her skin.

ing. The cinema cough is becoming just as effective a symbol foreshadowing the future. The only danger is that in the "cough cycle" if a hero me but clears her throat in all innocence, the audiences will cry "Ah, ha!" and reach for their handkerchiefs.

That reminds us, of course, of the revival of "A Farewell to Arms," still after six years one of the better "good cries" of the screen. It comes opportunely, now that Gary Cooper has reached stellar eminence at the box-office, while Helen Hayes, disdaining pictures, has proved that even out of them one can build and keep one's fame.

Cooper Coming Up

"A Farewell to Arms" only slightly censored from its pre-Breen warmth and frankness is still a moving and powerful picture. Frank Borzage, who directed, has yet to top the horrifying pageantry of the Italian retreat, and his skill in tenderly romantic interludes was as notable then as now.

Miss Hayes, even then, could show most of Hollywood's beauties how to act without seeming to, and Cooper in 1932, with this performance, was working up to the interesting ingenuously style which now characterizes his every film.

Adolphe Menjou's work is still gem of acting, and the whole thing is singularly undated.

For Pattern 4725 is not only simple-as-can-be to make; it is a miracle of slenderizing, flattering fit. And it's decidedly youthful—just to put it on is to lose several years of one's age! Let a cool print—preferably a monotone and an indistinct design—enhance the fascination of the flared or puff sleeves, the cleverly tucked yoke that may suit a fluffy jabot or bow, the neat pannelled skirt. Why not use a silk crepe, a chiffon or voile?

Pattern 4725 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 38 takes 3 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric.

with the director's fondness for Wagnerian music in his scoring. The ending, in the new picture and the old, is virtually the same, with similar settings—and both Miss Hayes and Miss Sullivan are given tearful farewells to the rising strains of Isold's Love Death music. But Borzage probably realized that if better music for a "love death" could have been written, Wagner would have written it—and he "Three Comrades," at least, the director omitted the snub of pigeons in the fadeout.

Chapter 47
Asey Finds Some Clues

Roddy, Asey felt sure, had come to the garage after Marina's murder, and his plane wrecking and all the rest had been inspired by his more or less justifiable fear that he would be arrested for the killing. He paid his hush money to Nettie because he was scared stiff.

Jack Lorne might have gone to Roddy's, he might have slunk through the woods near the Hepplewhites'. But it was Asey's guess that Lorne had been summoned on the phone by Roddy, and that he had immediately returned home when Roddy—probably already dead in the garage, or at least already there with someone else—failed to show up.

While he and the rest raced their heads off, chasing Jennings, rescuing troopers, pulling Aaron out of cellars, hunting gold keys—during all that, the murderer was laughing up his sleeve. Why shouldn't he? He'd covered his tracks as nicely as anyone could. He hadn't thrust any obstacles around that would trip him up later. He hadn't tried to thwart anyone. He hadn't left any clues. But he must have left clues. You couldn't kill two people, ruin a mural, burn a barn, steal a gold key from a Congressman, drawings from an artist, a knife from a back door—you couldn't begin to do all those things without slipping up somewhere.

Wearily, Asey forced his mind back to Friday night and the beginning of everything.

He had worked his way up to the barn burning when he heard two cars pull up in his drive.

"Hanson," Asey murmured grimly to himself as he went to answer the knocker. "Hanson, jubilant and crown!"

Far from being pleased with himself and his solution, Hanson was worried.

"Asey," he said, "I'm stuck. Did Cummings tell you about Lorne? Well, it won't work. It ought to, but—my God, you've got to believe him! Lorne claims that Roddy called him up and urged him to come over on a matter of great importance. Lorne didn't want to, he said, because he was busy working on a picture for someone's dining room—now, isn't that crazy?"

"Not," Asey returned, "if you've had many deals with Lorne. It ain't. But he went, just the same."

Roddy kept calling and calling. So Lorne went. At last! When Roddy didn't show up by the breakfast house, where he said he'd be, why Lorne turned around and came home, and went back to work on his picture. That's a story, and he's sticking to it. And I can't break it. We can't. None of us. I can't get him to change a thing, and honestly, Asey, I'm determined to think that he's telling the truth. What do you think?"

"There's the matter of the drawings," Asey said. "Someone burned 'em, and it wasn't Jennings. An' the mural. It's been painted out, you know. I think both of 'em have got something to do with this affair, an' I think Lorne's the last person to harm his own work."

"I guessed something happened to the mural," Hanson said. "Look, can I come in and talk things over with you? I've got pictures of the mural, they just came from Boston. Asey, if you think there's any clue in this thing, will you look?"

Asey spread the photographs out on the kitchen table.

"These side panels," he said to Hanson, "are the things, I think. Now, let's see. This one here's all Pilgrims an' Indians an' history. Local faces. That's past history. I guess, an' this one's the future, with more local faces. Yup, here's Jennings as Industry Mending the Leaking Pipes of Civilization."

"Look!"

"Where's Pam Frye and her father?"

"They're in the main one," Asey said. "She's one of them tired-lookin' women that's stirrin' things in the kettle, an' he's either Time or the tax collector, floatin' on top. Oh, here's Peg Boone, on the history side. She's the Indian girl skinnin'—Hanson, what'n time is that critter she's skinnin'?"

"It might be almost anything," Hanson said. "It's got four front legs. She looks pretty good, compared to some. He did her a lot better than Pam. Asey, there's the milkman, and here's the Portygee we ran in so many times for boot-legging."

At the end of an hour, Hanson sighed.

"I can't make anything out of this," he said. "Not a thing. Can you? Oh don't tell me you're going to go through it all over again. Don't! Tell me more about the ambergris part of things. That ambergris gets me—"

"It gets me too," Asey said. "Hanson, I wish we had Lorne here. I'd like to know for sure what was what and who was who."

"Lorne's out in the car with my fellows," Hanson said. "I'll bring him in."

Lorne's general annoyance, annoyance and irritation all characterizedly gave way to pleasure at the excellence of the photographs.

"Get goin'," Asey said, "an' name people's hustle!"

"Why should I?"

"Name people," Asey said, "or I go out a paddie!"

With very bad grace, Lorne went through the series of pictures.

"Now," Hanson said when he got through, "what good did all that do? We're back just where we started. Asey, we are right back—"

"No, we ain't!" Asey said suddenly. "No steeboob! Hanson, we been comin' at this from the wrong angle! I want the way the person was pictured, an' what it told."

"What? What? You?"

Before Asey could explain, the

Dark Horse Stops Parker In Fox Valley Net Meet

New Orleans Star Eliminates Favorite at Neenah

FINALS SUNDAY

Bobby Riggs in Top Form to Defeat Edward Alloo

SUNDAY AFTERNOON
2:30—Singles final.
4:30—Doubles final.

BY DICK LEMBERG
Neenah — A dark horse in the person of Ernie Sutter, New Orleans, seeded No. 5 in the Fox Valley Tennis tournament, Friday afternoon won a well earned victory over Frankie Parker, New York, seeded No. 2 in the tournament, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4. Dopesters had picked Parker to win, but the New Orleans boy playing first rate tennis wilted Parker out of the running.

Parker started out hitting the ball murderously and won the first set without much trouble. Leading 5-2 in the second set, Parker chasing one of Sutter's deadly placement shots, took a bad tumble and bruised his arm and leg. Sutter quickly ran off games and with flat shots that came booming over the net won the second set. In the final heat it was anybody's match. The games saw-sawed up to 4-4. Sutter, making many cross-court placements, went on to win the match. This victory gave Sutter the right to meet Charles E. Hare, Birmingham, England, this afternoon in one of the semi-finals matches. Hare had defeated Duane Longacher, Madison, early Friday morning to advance to the semi-finals.

In the first match Friday afternoon, Elwood Cooke, Portland, Ore., defeated Hal Surface, Kansas City, 7-5, 6-2. Surface was seeded No. 3, while Cooke was seeded No. 5. This also was a decided upset. Cooke using his impressive serve to the utmost advantage kept Surface well in the backcourt and away from the net.

Flawless Tennis
Cooke was playing flawless tennis and he went for every shot made many difficult returns. Using all his power in hitting his backhands, Surface pressed Cooke closely in the first set, but Cooke with his steady base-line shots won the first set. In the second heat, Cooke put on more pressure and ran off the match in a short time. This gives him the right to meet Bobby Riggs, Los Angeles, seeded No. 1 in the tournament in the other semi-finals match.

Riggs played Edward Alloo, Berkeley, Calif., seeded No. 7, defeated him, 6-4, 9-7, 6-1. Riggs' serve was in top form and he won the first game on three aces in four serves. He kept his younger opponent running and Alloo tired. But his drives weakened and his service fell far below par, and Alloo ran off the second set. In long base-line duels, Riggs was far superior to Alloo and won the third set.

Riggs-Surface Win
In quarter-finals doubles played Friday afternoon, Riggs and Surface defeated Mark Catlin, Appleton, and Edward Tieman, University of Indiana, 6-2, 6-4. The team of Catlin and Tieman played game tennis but could not cope with the placements and the steadiness of Riggs and Surface. Tieman used a powerful service and many of his shots caromed off the rackets of his partner.

Lester Brown, Texas, and Bobby Curtis, Houston, Texas, upset Sutter and Alloo who were seeded above them when they thrashed out a 6-2, 6-0 victory. This match featured brilliant net play and Curtis and Brown skinned the net with powerful shots. This gave them the right to meet Riggs and Surface in the semi-finals match this afternoon.

Hare and Cooke won an easy victory over Guy Corson, Minneapolis, and Bob Borchardt, Manitowish, 6-0, 6-1. Hare and Cooke were playing matchless tennis.

Parker-Strange Triumph
Frankie Parker and Billy Strange, Neenah, the only local player left in the tournament defeated George Foley, Miami, Fla., and George Pryor, Kenyon college, 6-4, 8-6. Both teams were playing fine tennis but the Parker-Strange team was too steady for them. Strange was serving with tremendous power and he need his opponents many times. The net play was a treat and the exchanges were well played. This gives them the right to engage Hare-Cooke in the other semi-finals match in the double.

In semi-finals singles scheduled for this afternoon Riggs was to meet Cooke at 1:30 and Hare was to face Sutter at 4 o'clock.

YESTERDAY'S STARS
Bobby Doerr, Red Sox—Hit homer and double and drove in three runs in 9-8 win over Yankees.

Alex Kampouris, Giants—His two-run homer beat Bees 4-2.

Harry Kelley and Cecil Travis, Senators—Kelley pitched seventh-inning shutout and Travis hit four-run drive in four runs in 11-0 victory over Athletics.

Wally Berger and Billy Myers, Reds—Berger hit two homers, driving in four runs, and Myers hit homer in time to break up ball game for 7-6 win over Cubs.

Roxie Lawson, Tigers, and Mike Kreevich, White Sox—Lawson pitched two-hit, shutout ball for six innings to save 7-5 opener win; Kreevich hit double and two singles and scored three runs in 5-3 nightcap victory.

Roy Rosen, Dodgers—Hit homer, double and single, drove in three runs and scored in 13-2 win over Phillies.

Odell Hale, Indians—Hit single in tenth to drive in winning runs to beat Browns 8-7.

Georgia Coleman, Victor Over Paralysis, Gains Strength to Swim and Dive Again

BY SAM JACKSON

Los Angeles.—The greatest woman diver in history is again fighting her way back into sports after an attack of paralysis had left her an apparently hopeless cripple.

The name of Georgia Coleman, and it's usually the only name heard when nominations are opened for all-time queen of the springboards. The records show that in addition to various other titles, Georgia won the high board, low board and plain and fancy high diving championships in both the 1920 and 1932 Olympics.

And while she recovers she is getting into business, manufacturing a new kind of fulcrum for springboards. Her illness has taken plenty of money for doctor and hospital bills.

It was last Thanksgiving day that Georgia was stricken with complete paralysis of her arms and legs while teaching swimming at a swanky Santa Barbara hotel. Taken to Los Angeles, where her mother lives, she was bedridden for months and even her life was despaired of.

Then, without physicians' promptings, she undertook to walk. A few faltering steps resulted. She tried to swim and had to be rescued by Fred Cady, her coach. But she persevered.

Learned To Walk
Then, without physicians' promptings, she undertook to walk. A few faltering steps resulted. She tried to swim and had to be rescued by Fred Cady, her coach. But she persevered.

"I can walk pretty well," the 26-year-old woman says. "I find turning around quickly or standing still in one spot most difficult."

"The tips of my fingers and toes still feel numb. For instance, I can't tell the difference between a quarter and a dime just by feeling them. But I've come a long way since November when I'm going to do better."

Miss Coleman now swims almost perfectly and plays golf and badminton. The coordination required for championship diving naturally is out of the question just now.

The fulcrum, to the improvement of which she is devoting herself, is the bar on which a diving board rests. Under diving rules it may be adjusted according to the performer's taste to regulate the spring or "tension" of the board. In most cases this is done by turning a wheel with the foot just before the dive.

Better Fulcrums
Says Phil Patterson, former professional diving champion, who is collaborating with her:

"Most fulcrums work so hard a diver often just has to accept whatever adjustment he finds. I've seen people fall off the board trying to stand on one foot and turn the wheel with the other."

"Miss Coleman's device will operate by a easily turned hand lever, with an indicator showing the adjustment to a fraction of an inch. A more expensive model will operate by electric push buttons."

"The fulcrum will make for better diving, as the performer can get exactly the tension he wants, even varying it with different types of dives if desired."

SENATORS WIN
Washington.—(P)—Washington beat Philadelphia, 11 to 0, yesterday behind the seven-hit pitching of Harry Kelley. It was the second shutout Kelley has pitched since the Senators took him off Philadelphia's payroll.

Mixing a sweeping curve with a fast ball, Kelley didn't let an opponent reach second until the eighth, when Philadelphia filled the bases.

Cecil Travis, with a double and three singles out of four times at bat, led the Senators. His teammate, Sammy West, got a triple and a single.

Philadelphia's flashy outfielder, Sam Chapman, making his debut at Washington, failed to get a hit.

Indians Back at Top After Nosing Out Browns, 8-7

Tribe Behind 6-0 at End of Third; Hale's Single Cinches Tilt

CLEVELAND—(P)—The Cleveland Indians regained undisputed first place in the American league race yesterday by edging the St. Louis Browns, 8 to 7, in 10 innings while the Yankees were losing at Boston.

Sammy Hale's fourth hit of the game, a single to center field, drove Len Lannan, minor league pitcher, over the top of the outfield fence in the deciding run with one out in the tenth. Lannan walked in the extra inning, and went to third on Campbell's single.

The Browns got away to a 6 to 0 lead, scoring five runs off the veteran Earl Whitehill in the first three innings, and another off Rookie Johnny Humphries in the fifth.

Cleveland scored four runs in the fifth and tied it up with two in the sixth. The Tribe went ahead in the seventh when Jeff Heath tripled and then scored on Trosky's tap to the infield. St. Louis again tied it up in the eighth on Sullivan's single, an error by Lannan, and an infield out.

Mel Harder, who took the mound in the seventh, was the winning pitcher and Ed Cole, who went in after the Indians tied it up in the sixth, was the loser.

Neenah at Grand Chute.
Oshkosh at Appleton.

BECHER TAVERNS of Appleton and the Oshkosh Cubs will tangle at the Spencer street diamond Sunday afternoon in a Fox River Valley league contest. Although the Cubs won the first half championship and showed power both at the plate and in the field, the Tavern boys are determined to break into the win column.

Brokup who has been turning in fine performances on the mound for the local squad is again scheduled for the hurling duties. Manager Wally Murphy called a special meeting Thursday evening in an effort to trace the cause of a current hitting slump and thinks the boys are now on the upgrade. Last Sunday the team collected but three safe blows off Little Chutes rookie, Dizzy Guerts.

Kleber, the Oshkosh ace twirler, will be on the mound for the Sawdust City aggregation and has a fine record in league competition.

The Appleton outfield will show Norm and Mel Pope in left and right and Roy Rippl planted in the center garden. The infield combination is undetermined but Wonsor or Van Vundern will get the call at third while Mueller will be at short and T. Murphy on second. Bob Cotton will get the first base assignment and Krause will work behind the plate.

BATTLE FOR LEAD
Little Chute — A battle for sole possession of the Fox River Valley league lead will be staged at Kaukauna Sunday afternoon when the Menasha Falcons invade the Electric City Brewers' stronghold.

The game was originally scheduled to be played at Menasha but the new park there is not ready for use.

It is likely that the game will resolve itself into a pitchers' duel between George Kosloski of the Falcons and Eddie Schuler of the Brewers. Schuler, back in action after a 6-week illness, held Green Bay scoreless last week. With a couple newcomers in Joe Gertz and Joe Gossens, Manager Kilgas of the Brewers believes his team will be at the top of the pennant race when Sunday's game is over.

Grand Chute will entertain Neenah Merchants. Noffke, big right hander, will twirl for Grand Chute while Schultz, who tossed a 16-inning win at Oshkosh last week, will be on the mound for the Merchants.

Little Chute will travel to Green Bay to meet the Thomas Drugs and the Dutchems, have their sights set on a win. Either Lefty Wildenberg or Diz Guerts will pitch for the Chutes. Radio, expected to be the Green Bay hurler.

TWO RIVERS

The second half of the Northern State league pennant chase gets under way Sunday and every squad in the 8-spoke wheel feels confident of having something to say about the closing lap championship.

Several of the clubs have bolstered their pitching staffs while some of the other squads have added a gardener or infielder to keep pace with the procession.

The 'home stretch' calls for each team to play 14 games, seven at home and seven abroad in the next couple of months before the curtain falls on Sept. 4.

Eddie Raab will take his Cool City Veterans to Seymour Sunday and a tough game is expected as Porky Penzenstadler, ace slabster for the Row-men, has been going great guns in recent games. Lucy Alberts will probably toe the mound for Two Rivers.

Manitowoc is at home to the Green Sox. The Ships fizzled in the closing hop of the first lap but Manager Al Borths expects it will be a different story from now on.

Lefty Schooner and Gray are to work for the home club with George Gust and Serlich as the probable battery for the Rays.

Kaukauna At Kimberly
Kaukauna plays at Kimberly and the fur should fly as Whitey Behrendt, pilot of the Papermakers, has lined up a couple of new pitchers who should produce some wins.

The Kaws are standing pat on their first half battle front and it will be either Bowers or Weisberger on the slab with Beck behind the log.

New London hops over to Clintonville this week-end to tangle with the Trunkers in what promises to be a battle royal as the teams are poison to each other.

Tip Krohn will probably start for the High Lifes and Tommy Tomlin is due to twirl for the Clints.

TWO GAMES
Kimberly The Kimberly Papermakers of the Northern State league will show in two games Sunday with their bitterest rivals, the Kaukauna Mellow Brewers.

The first game will be played at Kaukauna at 10:30 in the morning, which is a postponed match rained out earlier in the season. Sunday evening the two clubs will play the first game of the second half under the lights at the Kimberly ball park.

Much depends on whether Kaukauna will hold lone possession of the first round championship in the Northern State league or share it with Two Rivers. The Brewers have won 10 games and lost 3 while Two Rivers have topped 9 and lost 4. Two Rivers will play a postponed match with Seymour Sunday morning.

Revenge will be sweet Sunday morning and should the Papermakers defeat Kaukauna which they hope they will, the Brewers and the Rivers would have to stage a series for the championship of the first half.

Won Three
The Papermakers were probably down in standing in the first half but proved they were a long way from out as they celebrated the third and the fourth of July by taking two wins, one from Clintonville and one from Manitowoc, which the first half came to a close. Earlier in the season they also won over Green Bay.

Three pitchers will be in trim for Sundays double header. Manager Whitey Behrendt announced, Lefty Behr will be on the mound for the morning game and Miller and Call will be reserved for the evening tilt. Sunday evening will be the opening of the second round which will begin about 6:30.

Kaukauna as well as other clubs in the circuit are going to find that the Papermakers are a different ball club in the last round as the organization that started late is beginning to click and will give other teams plenty of opposition.

Entertain New London
Clintonville—Now that the first half of the Northern State League schedule is completed the Clintonville Trunkers are looking forward to the last 14 games with the idea of finishing in first division. Their first attempt to break into the first division will be on the local diamond Sunday night.

High Lifes come to town for a starlight game. So far this season these two teams have made an even break of their games, each winning one encounter. The Trunkers and the High Lifes have always been bitter rivals and you can be assured that whenever these two teams get together the

The Green Sox still lead in team hitting with .278 and Manitowoc is next up with a .260 ranking. Joe Vnuuk, Manitowoc, tops the regulars who have seen action all year with a .453 swat mark. Shorty Zuidmuller, Green Bay, and Stan Smogoleski, Two Rivers are both hitting an even .400.

British Titlist Looks for Income

Reggie Whitcombe First of Three Brothers to Win Open

Sandwich, Eng. — (AP) — Stolid Reggie Whitcombe, at 40 the youngest of a trio of famous golfing brothers and the first to win the coveted British open title, looks upon the big increase in his annual income as something at least as important as the prestige he won yesterday.

After battling a 50-mile wind that all but blew the players off the course and sent scores kiting up into the 90's, and after waiting while the late finishers, including the defending champion, Henry Cotton, finished their rounds, Reggie's comment when he learned of his victory was:

"All we cared about was that a Whitcombe won. We didn't mind what the extra money a champion can earn probably means a lot to Reggie, who often has been near but never before on the top. Cotton estimated his 1937 victory over Reggie was worth $25,000.

The Whitcombe temperament, much the same in 48-year-old Ernest and 42-year-old Charles, played as big a part as Reggie's skill and his powerful build in battling the gale. He just kept on playing his game and shot 75-78 on the last two rounds to turn a two-stroke deficit into a two-stroke victory. He finished with 295 for the 72 holes against 297 for Jim Adams and 298 for Cotton.

game will be nip and tuck all the way. After the Trunkers poor showing both Sunday and Monday Len Goerlinger, local manager has promised a shake-up and not to have the fans too antagonized against his doings the club has appointed Bill Wulk, well known veteran of the diamond, as his assistant manager. Wulk hails from Marion and is well capable of managing a baseball team as he has been in close contact with the Northern State league giving hints and what not to the Clintonville team in previous games.

Confidence Unshaken
The Trunkers have not lost confidence in themselves because they lost two games over the weekend but consider it a good omen. It so happened that last year the Trunkers ran into the same difficulty as they are facing this year and during the Fourth of July celebration lost both games but came back in the second half of league play to take the pennant in grand style.

Goerlinger and Wulk will have difficulty facing them right from the start. Last Sunday Palmer was struck by a ball about the middle of the game but finished the game. Monday he found that he had broken a bone in his ankle and would be out indefinitely. Also Sid Fells, promising right handed hurler, is studying to become a lawyer and this week he is at Madison taking the state bar examination which will leave the Trunkers with only three available pitchers. Petcka, who pitched two games over the weekend, Huffman, and Tomlin.

FEATURE GAME
New London—Sunday night the New London High Lifes will invade Clintonville for a feature game in the Northern State league. The game was originally scheduled for the afternoon but was changed to a starlight game to attract more fans in the evening.

Marlyn Munsch appears the choice for New London on the mound but Manager Stacy won't say for sure. Pete Westphal has always been a jinx for Clintonville in a night game and Tip Krohn has been showing well in practice this week. Sid Fells or Joe Petcka are expected to oppose the invaders.

The game will be the third meeting this season and the first of the second half. So far the teams have broken even and it's up to the High Lifes to start a new cycle.

Orville Hauk is still out of the New London lineup with his busted hand and Herb Palmer, Clintonville shortstop, is out of commission with an injured ankle. Art Johnson, new athletic director at Clintonville, is taking the Trucker's place.
